COLORED TROOPS FIRST TO MARCH UP AVENUE

New York Welcomes Its Own Colored Regiment, Col. Bill Hayward's "Hell Fighters," Heroes of Many a Battle in France.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 17.—Nearly three thousand strong, the dusky "hell fighters" of the famous 369th. infantry—formerly the "Fighting Fifteenth" of the National Guard—came to New York from Camp Upton today and paraded up Fifth avenue to the plaudits of thousands of their admiring countrymen. They carried the tattered and medal-decorated flags they had borne to victory on many a hard fought battlefield of France and wore their trench helmets. Colonel Hayward, organizer and commander of the unit, headed the parade.

This is the first complete unit of war veterans to parade in New York. State and city officials reviewed the marching troopers.

At the conclusion of the parade the "hell fighters" were escorted to the 71st. regiment armory and treated to a big chicken dinner.

RESUME RED CROSS SEWING AT D. A. R.

No Longer as Excuse For Not Helping in Needed Red Cross Work—Chapter House to Open Wednesday Afternoon.

Owing to some difficulty in securing the necessary supervision, etc., some little time has elapsed since Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R., offered to continue to give the rooms in its Chapter House, used by the Red Cross for surgical dressings, for the present Red Cross work of making refugee garments. The delay has been a matter of sincere regret to both the D. A. R. and the Red Cross, but it has been unavoidable.

Now all has been arranged for the opening of the Chapter House for this badly needed Red Cross sewing—and be it known that in this particular sort of work the chapter is still way behind its allotment, owing to lack of workers—on Wednesday afternoon of this week, at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. William S. Elting, Mrs. Benson Miller and Miss Helen Loughran will act as supervisors of the work, which will be done, to begin with on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon of each week, unless there are enough women present to make it possible to keep the rooms open other afternoons.

The several sewing machines offered at the D. A. R. meeting mentioned above will be in readiness on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, as will all of the necessary supplies for the work.

Work Not Difficult.

Many women have felt that the work was too difficult for them to undertake. As it will be done on the "piece" plan, that is one person doing one kind of thing for one afternoon, it will be seen that the difficulties have been quite overestimated. Furthermore, there will be considerable basting necessary, and while that is not as much fun as running a new machine, it is needed. Red Cross work is all "needed," so there will be a place for every woman who will spend some time at the Chapter House. If one cannot spend a whole afternoon they can at least spend an hour or two a week. And this clothing is most seriously wanted, never forget that!

All Helpers Asked to Come Wednesday.

Now, no matter whether the women of Kingston are planning to work on Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday, they are all asked to come to the Chapter House on Wednesday afternoon, in order to have the work systematized at the very beginning. Where women have a preference as to the days they are to work, that can then be arranged for, and then it will be possible to assign those other women who can come any one or more than one of the three afternoons to such time as they will be most needed. In this way the work women can be kept busy to advantage rather than overcrowded on one day and short of help on another.

Many women have said that the reason they were not helping with the Red Cross work at this time was because they could not take the time to go down to Broadway, and this excuse will no longer be necessary. And practically every woman can help with the basting. It is earnestly hoped that there will be a very large turnout of women at the D. A. R. Chapter House, at the juncture of Crown and Green streets on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, this week.

Smoker Tonight.

Kingston Council, No. 275, Knights of Columbus, will hold a smoker this evening at their home on Broadway. All members are urged to be present.

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR PRIVATE GILL

Church Honors Memory of Soldier Killed in Action in France—Volunteer Guard of Honor Composed of Soldiers Attends Service.

PRIVATE ARTHUR H. GILL.

The memorial service which was held Sunday evening in the Spring Street German Lutheran Church in honor of Private Arthur F. Gill, who died in action September 29, 1918 was very largely attended by the members of the church and many friends who testified thus their esteem for the dead hero and their sympathy for his bereaved mother. A guard of honor of the following soldiers was in attendance: George Schantz, Corp. Albert Salzmann, Worthington C. Barnhart, Henry Schantz, Melvin Morgan, Corp. Frederick Schwenk, Corp. Philip Rien, Henry Muench, Robert Dubois, Bernard Bourke. The altar was covered with flowers and a beautiful wreath of magnolia leaves and carnations, a token of love from the Sunday school, was placed most prominently in front of the altar. Among the flowers was a beautiful bouquet of carnations, a token of respect from the employes of the Van Slyke & Horton factory. The entire service was most impressive and the large audience was deeply moved by the solemnity of the occasion. Appropriate music was rendered by the large church choir conducted by Prof. Jacob Stumpf. At the close of the service the taps were softly sounded by the Bugler W. Barnhart. Rev. A. Schmidtkonz delivered the following memorial sermon:

War is a frightful and hideous thing. War is the result of human passion, ambition and selfishness. War is man's inhumanity to man which makes countless thousands mourn. War is generally the weapon or power by which the mightier forces his desire upon the weaker. From the time Cain lifted up his hand to slay his brother Abel the human race has had war. The universal history has been written with blood. There have been wars from the beginning of the nations and there will be wars unto the end of the world. Christ prophesied this. Nowhere did He say that wars should cease before the eternal victory would come.

History shows that while men and nations and rulers order and wage war, God Almighty overrules them to accomplish His own divine purpose. His divine hand is directing the destinies of men, nations and civilization. He never loses His oversight and control of the world. The great political movements of today are not the movements of a few men. These men are only actors on the stage of time. They act their part on the stage of the eternal God and move on and do not know the next act. The Lord reigneth. His plans will in the end be right as they always have been.

We know in a measure what has

EXTRACTED TEETH WITH CORKSCREW

Lieutenant John P. Reading, Jr., Spoke of Interesting Experiences Over There in Rondout Presbyterian Church—Was Gassed.

Lieutenant John P. Reading, Jr., who was gassed and sent home from "Over There," and who is spending a furlough at the home of his parents on West Chestnut street, gave a very interesting talk Sunday evening in the Rondout Presbyterian Church of his experiences on the battle front. Lieutenant Reading not only did dental work in the army but was assigned to one of the dressing stations at the battle front, and saw action in several of the big drives.

Lieutenant Reading is the first young man of the Rondout Presbyterian Church to return from overseas service and his talk Sunday evening was an informal one. He made no attempts at flights of oratory but in plain English and convincing fashion gave a brief outline of what he had seen, encountered, and heard while in France.

He touched briefly upon the dental work in the army, and gave two incidents of his own work in that line. One was where one of the men had to have a tooth extracted. Lieutenant Reading's kit of tools were absent from the scene, but he borrowed a corkscrew from a Frenchman and extracted the tooth with it. As he said it was plain brutal dentistry. Another time his office was the rear of a wagon. It was raining hard and the patient objected strenuously to keeping his head up and mouth open for the rain drops fell in his mouth.

Lieutenant Reading in speaking of the atrocities of the Huns said he hated to speak of it for it made him so mad that he could not talk. He said that while in Belgium he met and talked with two little Belgian boys whose hands had been horribly mutilated by the Germans so that when the boys grew up they would be unable to handle a gun. As the American forces he was with drove back the Huns toward the Rhine and out of France the Americans heard some terrible stories of German occupation of the French villages and cities.

Lieutenant Reading related how the French residents gave his companion and he a vivid word painting of what they had had to endure while Germans held the town, but the experiences of the French at the hands of the Huns are not fit to be told.

A high tribute was paid to the Y. M. C. A., the Red Cross, the Salvation Army and the K. of C. by Lieutenant Reading. He said that never again would the boys poke fun at the Salvation Army, and the taste of those S. A. doughnuts would be with them to their dying day.

Lieutenant Reading was assigned to a front line dressing station and his work consisted principally in applying first aid to the wounded and then sending them back to the dressing stations and base hospital in the rear. He said that he would never forget the sights and the sounds and the smell of those days in the trenches. He spoke briefly of shell shock. To his mind it was caused by the fact that the boys would be in the trenches for days with nothing to see above them except the sky, and as the days passed they would miss a companion here and there killed by the German shells until they became highly nervous. Then when a shell broke near them something would snap in their heads. These cases were the hardest to handle. Nothing could be done for them except send them to the rear to the base hospital for treatment.

He touched upon the German spy and said that undoubtedly all those present last year had read in the papers of the exploits of Ruth Law, the woman aviator, who flew across the country. Then suddenly nothing more was heard of Ruth Law, and it was likely that nothing ever would. Incidentally Ruth Law was a man. On the other side they also got a touch of German spy system. He said that where he was billeted in a French village the hostess informed him that it was too bad he was to move on the next day. Later he asked the commanding officer about it, but the commanding officer had heard nothing about moving. Yet the division was moved the next day, the orders being brought by a courier. The hostess had known about the movement twenty-four hours before the officer in command of the division.

On another occasion the French sent word over to the American division that a Boche machine had dropped a German dressed in an American officer's uniform, and for the men to be careful and guarded in their conversation. The next day Lieutenant Reading said that about everybody was arrested at various intervals thinking that they were the German spy.

In closing the lieutenant touched briefly upon being gassed. He was sleeping up in the front lines when the Huns sent over gas shells. Before the alarm could be sounded he and several others had "got it," before they could put their gas masks on. He did not feel the ill effects until the next day when he was sent to the rear.

Lieutenant Reading during the course of his talk read occasionally from his diary and the entries made brought out the fact that a soldier's life was no idle bed of ease.

The lieutenant had with him a number of souvenirs which were viewed by the members of the congregation at the close of the service.

GERMANY ACCEPTS ARMISTICE TERMS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Copenhagen, Feb. 17.—The German government has decided to accept the terms of the Allies' armistice conditions.

The Weimer correspondent of the Politiken wires his paper, under date of Sunday, 6:20 o'clock p. m., that the agreement to accept the conditions were reached at a conference of party leaders.

Marshal Foch had informed the German armistic commission that the armistice would expire at five o'clock Monday morning and that the last hour for signing would be six o'clock Sunday evening. He declared if the armistice was not signed then he would leave Treves and it would not longer be in force.

PUDNEY GOES WITH FORSYTH AND DAVIS

Herbert H. Pudney, for the past two years manager of the Columbia Music Shop on Fair street, next to the opera house, has accepted and assumed his duties this morning as manager of the recently added Columbia Grafonola department at the Forsyth & Davis store on Wall street. During his two years in Kingston Mr. Pudney has made a large number of friends of both personal and business acquaintance and their good wishes for his success follow him to his new position. He has proven his wide knowledge of music to the public of this city not only as a piano player of rare ability but as a judge and advisor of select music as produced on the Columbia machine. Before coming to Kingston Mr. Pudney for years was the conductor and pianist of the famous Pudney Orchestra of Poughkeepsie and is recognized as one of the few expert piano artists in the state.

SMOKING ROOM IN NEW THEATRE

Other Improvements On Original Plans Ordered by Mr. Keeney—Opening Date Probably March 7.

An innovation for Kingston theatre-goers is to be introduced in the new Keeney Play House on Wall street with the installation of a smoking room in the basement for the male patrons. This matter was decided upon Friday last by Frank A. Keeney, the owner, who in company with Ray C. Owens, his general manager, was on an inspection trip of his property. Mr. Keeney is desirous of opening the new theatre as soon as possible so gave orders to Architect Gerard Betz to put on additional men to make the requisite changes for the smoking room and also other minor details that will add to the comfort of the patrons as well as the beauty of the place. The smoking room is new for this city and will prevent discomfort to theatregoers by eliminating smoking in the lobby and entrance hall.

The ladies' retiring room is also to be enlarged to twice the original size.

Extra men have been engaged in finishing the tile floors in the outer vestibule and make a most attractive feature as well as being sanitary and easy to keep clean.

The date of the opening night will be on March 7, and the proceeds of the first night devoted to the local Red Cross, under the management of Harry P. Dodge, details of which will be announced later in The Freeman.

The second night will be Keeney night at which time special features will be introduced in conjunction with an elaborate picture in its first production, featuring Katherine Calvert in "Marriage for Convenience," as well as music of the highest order.

Owing to the new machines used for displaying the pictures it will be possible for every one to view them with the utmost ease, whether seated in the rear of the big auditorium, or in the front of the house.

MOTOR CORPS AGAIN IN THE FRONT LINES

Ambulance Girls Continue Health Work—Now On the Way to Stop Spread of Diphtheria.

Owing to the large number of diphtheria carriers and cases in Kingston it has been necessary for the board of health to engage visiting nurses to call and investigate these homes where it is supposed to exist. The Woman's Motor Corps of the Home Defense has again responded where they are needed and are busy transporting these nurses about the city. The people of Kingston fully realize the importance of their work that they did at the time that the influenza swept our city and now the public's attention is again called to the prompt response to duty of this body of women workers.

MORE HOME SEWING.

Miss Rose Rotary Says That Times Have Changed.

A very busy young woman is Miss Rose Rotary of Philadelphia, who is giving expert instructions in home-sewing this week at the Van Wagenen store on Wall street.

In conversation with a Freeman reporter this morning Miss Rotary mentioned the wonderful increase in the popularity of home-sewing during the past two war-time years. Ladies, young and old, who had never before used a sewing machine joined with the thousands who undertook in this way the performing of an important war-time service by rendering assistance to the Red Cross. Others were lead to home-sewing with a view of saving—as of course she who can make a garment herself has no cost other than the materials.

As a result, Miss Rotary says there is more home-sewing being done today than since the days of our grandmothers. And what's more, women are taking pride in the work.

Fortunately sewing machine manufacturers have during recent years so perfected their machines that today the Standard Rotary, for instance, is so easily run that home-sewing has lost its old time irksomeness and becomes as interesting and no more arduous than the hand embroidery and art work that all delight in.

If any one doubts this, they just want to go in the Van Wagenen store and try to get into conversation with that very busy person, Miss Rose Rotary, who does not in the least confine her services to users or purchasers of the Standard Rotary. Her advice and help are free to all who come, regardless of what particular make of sewing machine you may happen to have or desire.

FRANCE WILL SUPPORT THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Main Idea Enthusiastically Approved, Although Details Are Not All As Hoped For—France to Have Biggest Army.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, Feb. 17.—France will support the League of Nations covenant as a whole it was learned today from an authoritative source. While her delegates on the special committee suggested several features which were not included in the final draft her enthusiastic support of the idea is not affected thereby.

French opinion holds that Article VIII concerning the fleets may serve the purposes of Great Britain and America and enable them to dispense with the maintenance of a big standing army. But French officials firmly believe and will demand that France shall maintain the biggest army of any of the nations participating in the covenant. They believe that the open frontier compels France to stand prepared for any sudden aggression.

There was some disappointment over the fact that Leon Bourgeois's original plan to have an international army keep watch, fell through, and he now will endeavor to get recognition from the conference of the fact that France requires some compensation for having to maintain the biggest national army. The nature of the compensation has not as yet been set forth because the size of the French army will depend largely upon the strength of the force Germany will be allowed to maintain.

RECEPTION TO RETURNED SOLDIER

Bloomington C. E. Society Honors Private Ernest Wirth, Jr., Who Saw Service With the 78th Division in France.

PRIVATE ERNEST WIRTH, JR.

Bloomington, Feb. 17.—Following the public installation of the newly elected officers of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Bloomington Reformed Church on Wednesday evening, February 12th, a reception was tendered to Private Ernest Wirth, Jr., who has just returned from France, and has been honorably discharged.

Private Wirth sailed for overseas in May with the 78th Division from Camp Dix and soon after his arrival over there got into the big fight, taking part in the battles on the Arras front where some of the fiercest fighting took place. He was slightly shell shocked and gassed for which he was in the hospital for four weeks. He has fully recovered and is in the best of health. After the signing of the armistice he was transferred to a casual company, thus his early return to the U. S. A.

Immediately after the officers were installed, Private Wirth was asked to come forward. He was then presented with a beautiful bouquet of carnations by Mrs. A. A. Zabriskie. The Christian Endeavor Society also presented him with a beautiful bouquet of cut flowers and a solid gold Christian Endeavor pin, the presentation speech being made by Miss Florence Relyea. She reminded him that before his enlistment in the army of the U. S. A. for services in France, he had already enlisted in the army of Jesus Christ, and when he looked at this pin and saw the two letters C. E. they would remind him of this great army to which he belongs and also the society who gave it to him.

Miss Pauline Castor presiding at the piano, played a march and every one present marched forward to give the hand shake of welcome to this brave soldier, who is the first to return to this community. Before going away Mr. Wirth was an active member of the C. E. Society and on this same evening was installed as vice-president, again ready to enter into active service. Games were played by young and old and refreshments were served and the welcome home to Private Ernest Wirth was one that will be long remembered.

Poles to be Protected.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Copenhagen, Feb. 17.—A cessation of the German offensive against the Poles is one of the terms of the new armistice, which prolongs the terms of the last armistice indefinitely and reserves the right of the Allies to terminate it upon giving three days' notice on failure of Germany to comply with the conditions set forth on November 11, December 12 and January 16.

Fourth Labor Mass Meeting.

Mrs. Mary P. Scully, state organizer of labor for the American Federation of Labor, will again appear before the public of Kingston tomorrow evening in Odd Fellows' Hall on East Strand with a message concerning the labor problem for factory workers and all other trade people. A large attendance is expected for this meeting, the fourth of the series being held.

WHEN RIVER ICE WAS CUT IN 1916

Ray of Hope Among Icemen When They Remember What Happened in March of That Year.

With the weather today springlike and mild, and the Hudson river open for practically its entire length the prospects for harvesting an ice crop this season from the river appears very dubious.

Old time icemen, however, point back to the year, 1916, as an example of what the unexpected in weather conditions may develop. On February 17 of 1916 the weather was ten degrees milder than it was this morning, and hopes of securing an ice crop were rapidly disappearing. Then suddenly the weather turned off cold and in March of that year all the ice that was needed was harvested from the river.

In fact a survey of the past twenty years show that more ice was harvested during the month of March than in any other winter month. Just what conditions will exist this March is more than the icemen can foretell.

So far this winter not a pound of ice has been cut from the Hudson river. At the Binnewaters the ice is about 7 inches thick and none has been cut yet.

TAFT ENDORSES LEAGUE OF NATIONS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Portland, Oregon, Feb. 17.—President Wilson has achieved a triumph for the world and America. He is to be warmly congratulated on having the league of nations take the substantial form it does.

That is ex-President William H. Taft's opinion of the recent success of the League of Nations in Paris. Mr. Taft is here today as one of the chief exponents of the league in the northwestern congress for a league of nations, which is now in session.

Senators Poindexter and Borah are their colleagues opposing the league.

"Borah, Poindexter and others are doing their utmost to defeat the league as planned by the president. You can destroy the constitution of the United States by impossible hypotheses," the ex-president said, his eyes snapping.

Mr. Taft said that of the league covenants there are two or three points which he would like to see go further, one making it obligatory on the powers to furnish troops and military forces. He would like to see military force back of the league's decisions.

The ex-president emphasized that he believed it is the duty of the United States senate to ratify the treaty covering our membership in the league.

Arrested For Assault.

Leon Vito and Tony Procino, who reside at 24 North street, were arrested today by Officers Dunn and Kuehn on a warrant obtained by Dominick Pollastro of 22 North street, charging them with assault in the third degree. The case will come up for a hearing Tuesday.

January 10, 1919.

My Dear Mother:

Just a few lines to tell you I am well except I have the rheumatism, but will be all right in a few days. And I hope this letter finds you all well and happy. Is Lewis home yet, and what is he doing?

Mother, I am sorry I did not write you before, but every time I had any chance to write I would write to Olive, and I never did get any mail from her; in fact, I never had a letter from any one in the states and I sure would like to know how my family is getting along, that is what worries me most of all; but I hope they are all well. Where is Deanie and the baby, are they well, and is Mead back from camp yet? If he is, tell him I was asking about him and Lewis and tell him I could beat him a game of pool if I was home.

How is everybody in North Rondout? Is Hank running around? Remember me to him. Well, I suppose it is cold in the states by now and I suppose plenty of snow, but over here it hasn't snowed enough to see one's tracks, and if there happens to be a clear day it is nice and warm but there is very seldom a clear day over in this country; rain nearly every day. Is the Hudson frozen over yet and are they taking in ice yet? There isn't much to tell you in a letter, but if I was home I could tell you a deuce of a lot more that you would hardly believe. Do you go to see Olive much now?

Mother, it nearly makes me cry when I think of her and the two little babies and I know she has her hands full and has it pretty hard to get along and can't get any mail from her or anyone else, and I don't know if she is well or not; she wasn't feeling good when I came over here and that hurts me more than anything else. How is Georgie and Phil and where are they living now? Give them my regards.

I don't know if you know where Mattie is or not; I know she didn't answer my letter I sent her from the states. How is Annie? I nearly forgot her. Tell her to be a good girl or I won't like her any more.

Well, mother, I must close. Hoping to see you soon; love and kisses to all.

Your son,
BERT.

Camp Robinson, Feb. 6, 1919.

Dear Mother:

I now take the time to drop you a few lines to let you know I arrived safe at camp. Hope these few lines will find you all well. I like the place fine, but it is cold here. I am about 1,200 miles from home now. I don't think I will stay in this camp over six or seven weeks. I don't know if I will get home again or not before summer. I don't expect to get out of the army for six or seven months. There are 100 of us came here to work but I don't see anything to do. I am five miles from any village but they tell me it is a nice place. We had some sport coming here. The Red Cross met us at every stop and gave us smokes, matches and lots to eat.

Well, I think I will close for this time for the place is new and I cant think of any more to say. So goodbye. I remain as ever.

Your loving son,
LEWIS.

Bank Leases Vacant Store.

The vacant store on Fair street, next to that of George Styles, the jeweler, and owned by Mr. Styles, has been leased for one year by the Ulster County National Bank. This store has been vacant since the Universal Tire Company failed last year. Just what the bank will use the building for is not definite but it is proposed that if at the time the extensive alterations take place to the present building and the store now occupied by the American Railway Express Company, which they will also occupy, it may be necessary to use this newly leased store for the continuing of their banking business while these changes are being made. At the present time the improvements and changes that will take place in the bank building and express office have only reached the architectural viewpoint and nothing definite has been made known except that when completed the bank will occupy the ground floor of the present bank building from the United Cigar Store on Wall street to the Heffman cigar store on John street.

Monarch's Compliment.

A pretty compliment was that Philip IV of Spain, himself a painter, tendered to a greater artist, Velasquez. When Velasquez had finished his famous picture "Las Meninas," which includes not only Philip and his queen, but the artist himself, brush in hand, he asked of the king, "Is anything wanting?" "One thing only," answered Philip; and taking the palette from Velasquez's hands, he painted on the breast of the artist's figure in the picture the Cross of the Order of Santiago, the most distinguished in Spain.

SAUGERTIES.

Saugerties, Feb. 17.—William E. Young of the Quartermasters Department, U. S. S. Truxton, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Sickles on Main street.

Privates Frederick Miller and J. Frank Kenney, both of this village, have received honorable discharges from the U. S. Army and returned home.

Clinton Van Buskirk has sold the Loerzel property, corner of Partition and Clermont streets, to Mrs. Frank Loerzel.

A number of young people enjoyed [illegible] dance given by the "Juniors" of the Saugerties High [illegible] Friday evening. Schoentag's orchestra furnished music for the dancing.

Mrs. Frank Phelps of Main street is visiting in Atlantic City, N. J.

Herman Peters, for many years a merchant tailor on Partition street, had a paralytic stroke on Friday. His condition is critical.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cordes of Ulster avenue are recovering from their recent illness.

PALENTOWN.

Palentown, Feb. 17.—Thursday and Friday of this week there was no school in this place on account of the teachers' meeting at Ellenville.

The bears that saw their shadow on Candlemas Day, if they went back for a six weeks' sleep, are missing this nice weather.

Herbert Dymond is spending some time with his brother and family at Sundown.

John Traver, Sr., spent from Monday until Thursday in Kingston last week.

Mrs. Homer Traver wishes to thank Mrs. LeRoy Van Etten for the address she sent her.

Mrs. William Dymond and Mrs. William Gray have severe colds.

Mrs. H. Traver and daughter, Mildred, and Sylvia Beesmer called on Mrs. Otis Barringer last Sunday.

Homer Traver spent last Saturday and Sunday with his sisters in Mettacahonts.

Edna Elmendorf and Harold Kentor are absent from school on account of illness.

Edith Cutler is spending some time with Mrs. Elmer Barringer.

Mrs. Virgil Barringer was called to care for her daughter, who is ill at her home in Maybrook.

Mrs. Jesse Shurter was at Camp Merritt, New Jersey, last week to visit her husband, who is there waiting for his discharge from the army.

The revival meetings at Samsonville are progressing very nicely under the management of the Rev. Mr. Thompson and Miss Avery.

Murphy Calls on Old Friends.

James Murphy of 41 Brewster street, now with the American Abrasive Co., while on a business trip to Hudson, Friday, called on three old friends, Charles S. Harvey, who is holding his fourth term as mayor of the city, Chief of Police Cruise, and Augustus Schnack, all well-known to Kingstonians. Mr. Murphy and Mayor Harvey's friendship dates back to the time the later was president of the Hudson River Baseball League, and "Gus" Schnack was captain of the Hudson team. The later now is manager of the Hudson Playhouse, the leading theater of that city. That Mr. Harvey is popular is shown as the people have elected him mayor for four terms and they say he is good for a few more.

NO FUR, FRINGE, BRAID ON SUITS

Ornamentation Is Not to Be Returned to Spring Fashions, Say Style Prophets.

LINING DOMINATES THE COAT

Coloration Vivid, Occasionally Displaying Animated Designs of Tapestry of the Middle Ages—Various Types of Jackets.

New York.—Twice a year the little gyration of public opinion takes place around tailored suits, writes a leading fashion correspondent. There is a rapid swirl around a new center, and it sweeps over two continents. Twice a year women regard the tailored suit as the most important problem to be solved. A new one for autumn and a new one for spring is the necessity of the rich and the extravagance of the merely well-to-do. The glamor of one-piece frocks, heaped with fur or covered with smart topcoats, dies out. In autumn and spring we approach days when wraps are burdensome and the one-piece frock, unprotected, is chilly. We need the American costume that was invented to serve our necessity.

In January we begin to face the winter, and yet, with our usual capriciousness, we face the fact of choosing a new tailored suit. Even if we do not buy it, we talk about it. We like to speculate upon its possibilities. We show exceeding interest in the new fabrics that are advanced for it and the colors that the season will proclaim. Shirtwaists and various types of blouses engage our attention. The length of coats, the narrowness of skirts, the warmth of velours, the serviceability of taffeta, the probabilities of satin remaining in fashion, are phrases and reflections that flit through the mind.

The dressmakers do good propaganda work along this line at this time. The Palm Beach season is thrown at us like a brilliant flag against a gray, sleet-filled sky. It delights our souls. It makes us think of palm trees and coconut groves, of red clay roads in Georgia and Carolina, of pines that reach into the blue and croon queer songs throughout the night. In other words, the tailored suit, offered to us today, makes us all dream; and dreams of pleasant things make life bearable.

Moderate Skirts in Street Suits.

Now, here are the essentials to produce the dreams: Skirts are moderate in length and width in the new things that are exploited. They do not sweep the ankles; they do not curve in at the back of the knees; they have little resemblance to the lower part of a mermaid's body; they are straight, their seams hold them steady; they barely escape the ankles, and they allow freedom of movement.

There is no return to a flare at the hem of the skirt. Nothing ripples. But if the skirt is not permitted to curve out, neither is it permitted to curve in. Remember that, for it is an essential step toward grace.

There is an entire absence of fur on the suits. This is appropriate for the season, but it is significant of the fashions of the present hour, for many women buy suits in January that are intended to serve them through the cold weather yet to come. They must be guided in their choice of reduced suits today by what will be worn tomorrow.

The best tailor is content to let a skirt go free of ornamentation. Braid is overdone, fringe has become commonplace, and neither will be returned to the spring fashions, as far as the prophets can see.

Angora embroidery vanished with the war. Bias bands are good, and one of the best suits worn by one who prides herself on leading the way, has three bias folds, doubled and stitched at the upper edge. These ornament the hem.

Any woman would care to know the details of this suit because of its prestige at the moment. It is of rough cheviot in a mixed, golden brown that reminds one of the heather mixtures, only the touch of green is absent. There is the straight skirt with its double bias folds at the hem, and the coat that ripples a bit from shoulders to hips. There are bias folds flaring away from the surface of the coat, at the hem and the wrists. The sleeves are cut straight, neither yielding to the inclination to be Spanish with a bell-shaped opening at the wrist, or skintight, after the medieval manner. There is a wide, rolling collar that ends at the bust, and the fastening is unique; it consists of four long, wide tabs of the cloth, stitched at the edges, pointed at one end, with a long, stitched buttonhole. These buttonholes go over large buttons covered with the material. The stitched tabs run well across the figure, but the fronts of the coat swing open just a bit as the wearer moves, to show a mandarin yellow crepe de chine blouse.

Coat Linings Attract Attention.

The dominant factor in tailored suits is the lining. It dominates the coat. It is intended to create more attention than the outer surface. Its coloration is vivid, and now and then it displays the animated designs of the tapestries of the middle ages. Animals move over its surface. Human figures are engaged in human activities. Hunting scenes, pastoral scenes, gay little bits of street life, are put on the surface of your coat lining, and if you are clever, you see to it that the public is instantly made aware of the novelty.

The pity of it is that one does not take off the coat in public. That fashion went out of existence long before the war dominated the world. It has not been reversed. Women keep on their jackets until they take off their skirts. And yet, with this fashion an accomplished fact, the designers by the usage of pictorial linings, are stimulating women to put their coats over the backs of chairs whenever possible. Why pay a large price for a piece of satin tapestry if you cannot show it?

The average woman, however, does not accept these animated designs, although she is quite willing to accept the verdict for vivid coloration.

On the left, navy-blue tricotine trimmed with a raspberry straw braid. Suspenders of the cloth edged with the braid are attached to the skirt and hold up a front bib and continue down each side of the skirt. The sides are lapped and left open at the bottom to allow for walking.

On the right is shown a chartreuse-colored suit with collarless coat trimmed with tinsel embroidery. Plaited panels fall from each pocket, and there is a plaited panel in the front of the skirt.

Theoretically Still at War.

Although France and Mexico are actually at peace, a state of war still exists, theoretically, between the two nations, for after Maximilian's execution in 1867, the French withdrew their armies from Mexico, but never signed any treaty.

Swiftest Dog.

The swiftest dog in the world, the borzoi, or Russian wolfhound, has made record runs that show 75 feet in a second, which would give it a speed of 4,500 feet in a minute if the pace could be kept up.

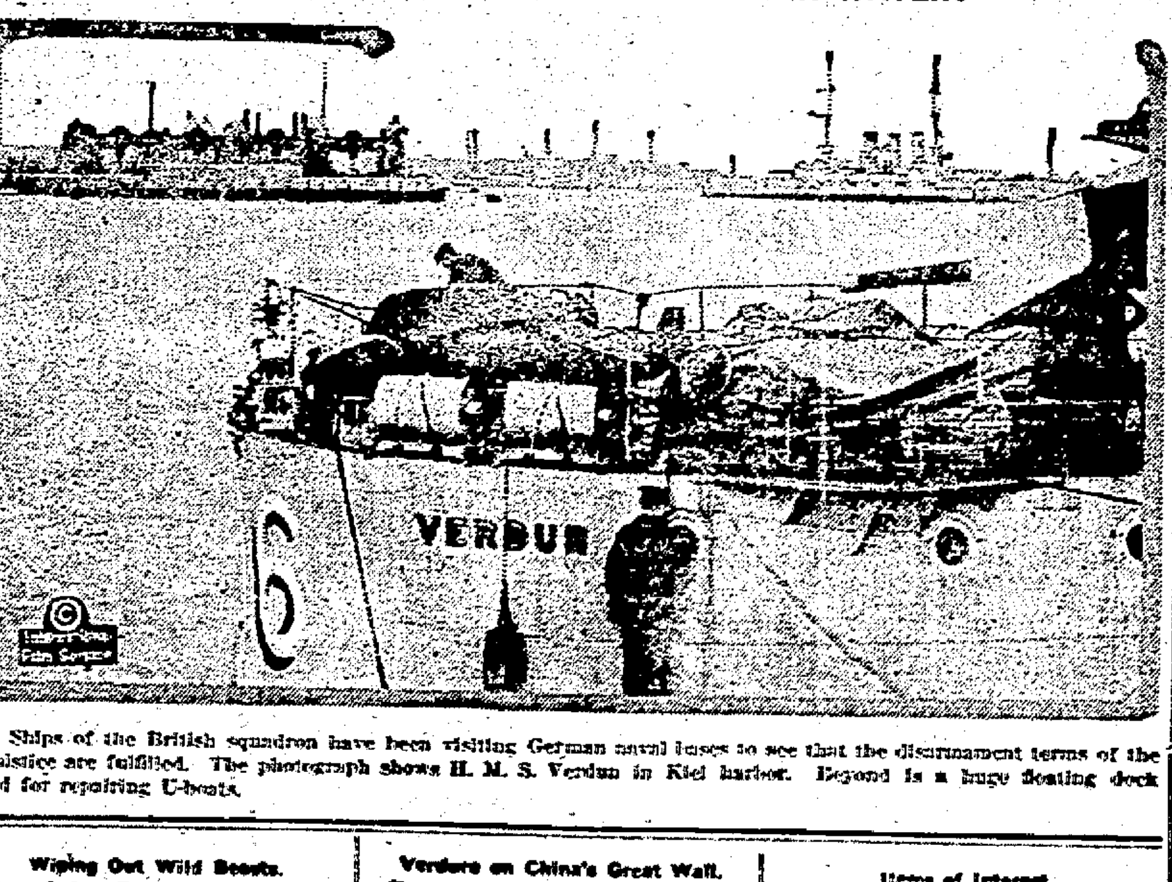
BRITISH SHIPS ON GUARD IN GERMAN WATERS



Ships of the British squadron have been visiting German naval bases to see that the disarmament terms of the armistice are fulfilled. The photograph shows H. M. S. Verdun in Kiel harbor. Beyond is a huge floating dock used for repairing U-boats.

Wiping Out Wild Beasts.

One of the efforts of the state government of Arizona and the federal government in their campaign for the eradication of predatory animals, which cause large losses in range stock, is the employment of skilled hunters. Thirteen are now in the employ of the state and federal governments.

Other men are exterminating rodents which destroy ranges.

One of the hunters within two months has killed 11 mountain lions. Another killed 35 coyotes within a month.

Verdure on China's Great Wall.

Trees and shrubbery planted in the soil that has been accumulating for hundreds of years on the great wall of China are in thriving condition, some of them having grown to a height of 12 to 18 feet. This method of beautifying the great wall was an outgrowth of the movement for the reforestation of the country started some time ago with government sanction under the direction of foreign experts. The driveway on the great wall is considered very much improved with the addition of trees.

Desserts for Children.

A dessert for a young child should be something easily digested, nutritious and attractive to the eye. Custards of various kinds are especially good for the little people—gelatin desserts served with cream, simple puddings not too rich, and fruits of various kinds are all good desserts.

Strawberry Custard.

Prepare a pint of good boiled custard, using two eggs, sugar and flavoring to taste, and one pint of good milk. Using a teaspoonful of cornstarch stirred into a little of the cold milk and well cooked before the eggs are added, also mixed with cold milk, will make a thicker custard. Two tablespoonfuls of sugar will be sufficient in this pudding. Freeze slowly until it begins to get thick, then add one large cupful of strawberry jam, which may have been pressed through a ricer to remove some of the seeds. If canned berries are used, the removal of the seeds will be easier.

Fruit Dumplings.

Make a batter of a cupful of flour sifted with a teaspoonful of baking powder and a little salt; add rich milk to make a drop batter. Butter the small cups and drop in a spoonful of the batter, then add a tablespoonful or two of canned cherries, juice and all; then another spoonful of batter. When four or five small cups are filled, leaving space to rise, set them into a shallow pan, adding boiling water to come well up on the sides of the cups, but not too much to boil over into them; cover and cook 15 minutes; serve with sugar and cream. Any canned fruit may be used; the juicier the fruit the better.

Fruit Juice Pudding.

For this pudding any strained leftover juice from canned fruits may be used. Take a cupful and a half of the juice, add a half cupful of water, into which has been stirred two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch. Cook until well done, then fold in lightly the whites of two eggs. Pour into a mold with alternate layers of the same fruit, drained, and serve when cold with a custard made of the two yolks.

INSIGNIA, CURTAINS, MADE FROM SKIRTS

Blue broadcloth skirts used for organization insignia and plaid summer dresses reconstructed into window curtains are after war economies of the nine Y. W. C. A. secretaries in Archangel, Russia.

These secretaries have just succeeded, in the face of food and cloth shortages, in opening a Y. W. C. A. Hostess House for American troops stationed in Archangel, a town behind the allied lines. It was necessary to hunt up a voile summer dress which one of the secretaries had discarded for heavy winter clothes in order to have curtains at the windows. They live on regulation army rations.

Archangel is the fourth city in Russia where the Y. W. C. A. has established work. Centers were opened first in Petrograd and Moscow and then in Samara, 900 miles eastward from Moscow.

Miss Elizabeth Boies, head of Russian work and one of the few Americans who remained in that country throughout the revolution, is en route to America by way of England to recruit workers for Russia.

SEARCH AND CONFISCATION

Mr Taft is a man of good sense and excellent disposition. He is fair-minded as well as judicial and patriotic When he speaks he says something. For example, he recently submitted that "we are already in entangling alliance and we must see the thing through." It is not to be wondered at that he is being warmly recommended as a Republican Presidential candidate in 1920. But the Anti-Saloon League serves notice that he will not do at all because he once vetoed a bill against the League's wishes Presumably this will put an end to the Taft "boom," for the Anti-Saloon League now appears to have the two parties as well as the government and the nation in its keeping.

The Anti-Saloon League is disposed to demand and may get everything it wants. But there is just one thing the Anti-Saloon League wants that it is not likely to demand—the searching of every cellar in the country and the confiscating of all the wine, beer and whiskey found. This is not likely because the great outcry against the invasion of the citizen's home and freedom would cause a revulsion of popular feeling perilous to prohibition in any form whatsoever. Yet search and confiscation would be a logical and even just following up of prohibition itself—just because it is monstrously unfair to permit the wealthy or the prosperous to "stock up" for years to come while forbidding the majority of the people the privilege of purchasing a single pint after an early fixed date The report comes privately of one man, not a millionaire either, who has already stored away "enough to last twenty years." This is but one among many thousands of such cases, and yet the majority of the neighbors of such men will soon be unable to purchase as much as a tablespoonful. Obviously this is a mockery of justice in a country supposedly free and of equal opportunity.

MORE SOUTHWEST EXPANSION

Lower California is attracting the eyes of our expansionists again, Senator Ashurst of Arizona being quite wrought up on the subject As long ago as the Gadsden Purchase there were Americans who wanted it included in our national domain. By the treaty of Guadaloupe in 1848, after our war with Mexico, we took over the vast territory now included in California, Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada, Utah, the western part of Colorado and the disputed strip of Texas between the Nueces River and the Rio Grande. But this was not enough to satisfy our expansionists, and in 1853 we paid $10,000,000 for a strip of territory 500 miles long and 120 miles wide carrying the southern borders of New Mexico and Arizona down to their present limits, the purchase being negotiated by General Gadsden of South Carolina, our Minister to Mexico. Though we paid our money, the purchase was practically forced on exhausted Mexico and the transaction was so unpopular there that it caused the banishment of Santa Anna, who acted for Mexico.

In this country it was complained, and not without reason, that, while we were about it, we should have carried the line about a hundred miles farther south in the neighborhood of Yuma, thus gaining a port on the Gulf of California and acquiring a part of Lower California. Now Senator Ashurst is troubled because the whole of Lower California is not in our possession. He says: "The peninsula of Lower California, I repeat, is a vermiform appendix to Mexico. It is the heel—the Achilles heel—to the United States." Presumably the Senator calls the peninsula Mexico's vermiform appendix partly because of its shape but chiefly because the vermiform appendix is that part of the human anatomy which modern surgeons are inclined to cut off from the parent body at the least provocation.

The Senator's classical allusion is not so readily explained because the heel of Achilles was a part of himself while Lower California is not (yet) a part of the United States. When the mother of the ancient Greek hero dipped her son into the waters conferring invulnerability, she held on to him by the heel and neglected to "duck" the portion of his anatomy retained in her grip. Thus he was left vulnerable in that part, though elsewhere immune from the enemy's darts. Now, even if Lower California were ours it could not properly be called the vulnerable heel of the great American Achilles for the obvious reason that Mexico is too weak to be able to wound us either there or elsewhere. The one and only vulnerable heel of the otherwise invincible American Achilles is the Philippine archipelago. Those islands on the other side of the world can be so called because the great navy of a hostile power could seize them before we went to the rescue, and then it would cost us many times more than they are worth to win them back by force. Senator Ashurst has not only gone astray in his classical allusion but is needlessly fearful of injury done us by helpless Mexico.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"What is a prebiscite, pop?" "It's—er—It's one of these new high explosives they're using in the war, son."—Baltimore Amtrican.

A Real "Lidy."

The cabby was brought before the magistrate for using violent language to a lady

"But she an't no lidy," he protested, fiercely.

"Indeed!" quoth his worthy. "And do you know a lady when you see one?"

"Of course I do!" indignantly answered the man "Why, only the other day I saw one, she gave me a parn note for a shillen' fare and walked away. "'I, mum,' I calls 'what abart yer change?' 'Don't be blinkin' old fool!' ses she; 'keep it, and git drunk enough to kiss yer mother-in-law.'

"Now, yer worship," he ended, triumphantly, "that's what I calls a real lidy."—Tit-Bits.

A Good Answer.

Miss Katherine Stinson, the Chicago airwoman, said at a Hull House tea.

"It is remarkable how the whole world distrusts and hates Germany Take for instance, Switzerland.

"Germany, a short time ago, solemenly assured Switzerland that she would not violate Swiss neutrality Well, what was Switzerland's answer? She immediately sent out a hurry-up order for 350,000 gas masks"—Exchange.

"Don't you believe in Ten Commandments, then?"

"No, I don't."

SILLS IN HOSPITAL NEAR BALTIMORE

General Hospital No 2, Fort McHenry,
Baltimore, Md.
Feb 13, 1919.

Kingston Daily Freeman,

Dear Sir.—While looking over an issue of your paper sent me by a friend, I chanced to see a few letters from some of the boys of old Co M now the 51st Pioneers saying they were in Germany, but I hope they will return home soon as I would like to see some of my pals that I was separated from while at Wadsworth

Well, the war is napoo (finished) anyway and that is one consolation, but the next thing is to get home, but I suppose they will not be home for some time and when they do come they will get a bigger reception than the old place (Kingston) has ever given in history.

I arrived in New York on January 21st on the steamship Cretic and was sent to Ellis Island Hospital in company with C Entrott, also of Co M when we left Kingston, but of the 107th at present. I see that Entrott has been home on furlough, but I am not quite as lucky as him because he was sent to Camp Merritt and I to Fort McHenry, Baltimore, Md., where such cases as mine are treated, but expect to be O. K. soon and home with the boys again.

I have a brother (Harry) who is at present in Germany, but hope he will sail soon.

Hoping that Kingston is having as nice weather as we are having here on the shores of Chesapeake Bay, I remain,

PRIVATE JOE SILLS.

P. S.—Would like to know how Lieuts. Dittus and Cashin made out in the (grand rush) at Cambrai. I have not heard of either of them being wounded so I hope they are O. K.

Y. M. C. A. AUXILIARY MONTHLY MEETING

Th regular monthly meeting of the Y. M. C. Auxiliary, held at the Association building on Friday afternoon, was not quite as largely attended as usual, owing to the fact that the women of the city, were for the most part busy with the work of preparing for the Father and Son banquet of the Y. M C A, held in the three sections of our city Friday night Still there was a good attendance Following the routine business chairman of committees for the coming year were announced as follows: Membership committee, Mrs J Allan Wood; boys' committee, Mrs. J. C. Snyder; social and entertainment committee, Mrs. Charles R O'Connor; house committee, Mrs. William Longyear; flower committee, Mrs Albert Carr; calling committee, Mrs. Henry Weeks; devotions committee, Mrs. W. C. Kingman; supplies committee, Mrs. A. D. Rose and Mrs. C P. Hendricks.

At the close of the business session, Secretary Thornberry addressed the women on "Criticisms of the War Activities of the Y. M. C. A." speaking along the same lines as his article in a recent issue of The Freeman, but somewhat elaborating certain points.

CLAY LODGE MINSTRELS.

Rehearsals Indicate a Performance That Will Delight Everybody.

The rehearsals for the minstrels of C. S. Clay Lodge, No. 528, I. O. O. F., to be held on Tuesday, March 4th, at Pythian Hall, corner Wall and John streets, are nearing completion. Every one who takes part made a vow that this entertainment will bring out the best material that is in them. There will be thirteen in the circle. Four of these are end men. They have been teamed up, so as to give the atendants the greatest surprise of their life. With the interlocator they will keep all laughing until they cry. The balance of the circle wil entertain with the latest and most popular songs. So many folks are saying that the price of admission should be raised if an entertainment like last year is to be given as that was worth more. The committees do not believe in raising the price but instead will give them something far better for the same price, 25c. A dance follows the minstrels for the same admission. Can you beat it. Curt Shurter's orchestra will be there and all surely know what that means.

71 DIPHTHERIA CASES IN CITY

There Are Also 124 Carriers—City Physicians Met With Health Officer Johnston Saturday and Talked it Over.

Health Officer Frank A. Johnston stated this morning that to date there are 71 cases of diphtheria actually under quarantine, and that there are 124 carriers in the city. The great majority of the cases are below the West Shore, although diphtheria was now creeping uptown.

Saturday evening a number of the city physicians met with Health Officer Johnston at the city hall to talk over the diphtheria situation. Dr. Johnston explained the situation in Kingston at the present time, and the number of cases of diphtheria.

Dr. A. A. Stern offered a resolution requesting the state department to send a bacteriologist to Kingston, and remain here until all danger was passed. The resolution was adopted.

Dr. Henry Van Hoevenberg was of the opinion that the county laboratory could be placed in proper shape within twenty-four hours.

Dr. John F. Larkin said that in Yonkers the cultures and tubes were kept in the fire stations where physicians could secure a supply at all times. At present downtown physicians had to go uptown to secure such articles, and much time was lost.

Among others who spoke were Dr. Laidlaw, the state sanitary inspector, and Dr. Brooks of the state department.

BROWN CHIFFON VELVET

"This charming afternoon gown is fashioned in brown chiffon velvet. It has bands of satin trimming of the same shade. The hat is of brown velvet with a brim of brown angora. A soft band and bow of satin forms the sole trimming.

NEWEST HANDBAG IS OF FUR

Convenience Matches the Muff, Toque or Trimming of Coat—Many Other Striking Designs.

Really perhaps there is nothing very novel in the handbags of the moment. But just the same there are many new ones in the shops, as fresh and crisp—if one can call a handbag of softest chiffon velvet crisp—as possible.

One handbag that is extremely seasonable is that made of fur. It matches, of course, the muff or the toque or the collar or the trimming on one's coat or frock. Sometimes, indeed, it is muff and handbag combined—although even this idea is not new, as it was introduced a couple of years ago.

Then there are the lovely bags of chiffon velvet or velours made with dull silver settings—not too much of the metal, and the metal not too bright and shiny. Some of these bags are the ones with the octagonal or oval top that clamps down at one side, faced with a really good mirror. And the bit of chased silver is the framework of the top, and of course the metal clasp, as well, is of the silver. This same idea is carried out with dull woods of various shades of brown. Sometimes, with these bags, a big wooden bead forms part of the tassel at the bottom.

Tassels are the almost universal finish to the smaller handbags. When a bag reaches that larger size that puts it in the class of a shopping bag, it is not tasseled at the bottom. But the handbag almost always swings a tassel, of strands of chenile, of heavy twisted silk, of beads, either of steel, of jet or of colored glass, or else a combination of wooden beads and heavy strands of silk.

Some of the new bags have linings of green, blue or pink and white checked silk, quite like gingham in general appearance. Indeed, they are of silk gingham. At first thought a little checked design of pink and white is no suitable lining for a stately bag of black chiffon velvet that costs anyway $10, but still this new lining is novel, and it is dainty and fresh as well. Moreover, it wears fairly well, something not always to be found.

Most of the handbags have small purses within that are attached to the top framework by means of little chains. This obviates the necessity of feeling blindly about in the depths of the bag for the change purse, as one has had to do in the small-mouthed bags of the moment.

Cloth of Gold for Hats.

A good deal of cloth of gold is now being used in dress hats. It is most generally seen veiled with maline in order to dull the bright effect, and appears most popular when used under maline of brown or black. Another novelty for use in women's hats is a satin about 18 inches wide and stitched with silk floss in rows about a quarter of an inch apart. This effect is seen in sand on brown, Chinese blue on black, and jade on black, and is especially adaptable for draped turbans, crowns and facings.

Remember the Guarantee.

When buying gloves, stockings and other articles with a time guarantee, mark on your calendar the date of purchase, and then mark ahead the day on which the guarantee expires. On the back of the page for that month note where you have put the guarantee slips for safekeeping. Many people buy goods, meaning to take advantage of the manufacturer's offer of renewal, but allow the time to slip by unheeded.

As Matter of Duty.

It may not be ours to utter convincing arguments, but it may be ours to live holy lives. It may not be ours to be subtle and learned and logical, but it may be ours to be more noble and sweet and pure.—Canon Farrar.

LABOR UNREST ALARMS ENGLAND

Nearly All Trades Demanding Either Higher Wages or Shorter Hours, or Both.

BEER ISSUE AGAIN REVIVED

Dock Workers Complain of the Quality of Beverage and Shortage of Supply—Unions Strong and Well Organized.

London.—The industrial unrest prevalent throughout the country is causing serious anxiety, not only to large employers of labor, but even to conservative labor leaders. The labor leaders taking this attitude include J. H. Thomas, general secretary of the Railwaymen's union, who warned a meeting of postal workers who were demanding a 42-hour week, more holidays and curtailment of night work, that "the industrial and economic position of this country gives cause for alarm."

Demand Shorter Hours.

The postal workers are only one of many trade unions which are demanding shorter hours with the present or better pay. Up to this time the demands of the miners have been embodied in the resolutions of the Southport Miners' Federation, who demanded that the government demobilize all miners in the army and that wages other than war wages be advanced 30 per cent.

The attitude of the miners has caused the most comment, as coal and its price more directly affect the public. It is estimated that to grant a 30 per cent increase in wages would send the price of coal up at least a dollar a ton.

In addition to the miners, the shipbuilders on the Clyde and in other centers are agitating for a 40-hour week, with daily wages of £1. The men engaged in the same industry in Belfast threaten to throw down their tools unless they get a 44-hour week. The carpenters throughout the United Kingdom are asking for a 47-hour week, and the iron molders, who recently got 47 hours, are threatening to strike unless this is lowered to 44 hours.

May Go to Extremes.

The dock laborers are putting forth a demand for 44 hours for day workers and 41 hours for night workers. They are also much agitated over the shortage of beer and the poor quality of that beverage, and during the week there has been much slacking, particularly at Liverpool, from the cause: There has been a temporary shortage of beer at some shipping points due to the strike of brewery employees, who also complain of long hours.

All these unions are strong numerically and well organized, and from the tone of speeches at their meetings the members apparently are prepared to go to extremes in their efforts to have conditions of labor improved along the lines laid down in their resolutions.

There also have been minor troubles in the labor world. One of these affected the crew of the liner Adriatic. The sailing of that vessel for New York with a full list of American passengers has been delayed several days, and there is yet no indication of a settlement.

CONVICTED MAN OVERLOOKED

Stays Home for More Than a Year After Sentence Before Being Taken to "Pen."

Cleveland, Ohio.—Rosario Spinello for more than a year has been supposed to be serving a term in the penitentiary for manslaughter. And all during that time he has been at his home with his wife and seven children—either there or at his work in a factory here. The authorities merely neglected to come and get him. He did not attempt to evade the serving of his sentence. But he was not going to go to the police and insist on it. He did not even dodge policemen who knew he had been convicted, he says.

The crime was committed more than two years ago. For a year the case was in the courts. Then the appellate court sustained the verdict and ordered the sentence executed. But papers ordering his arrest, giving the police official information of the decision of the appellate court, were stuck in a pigeonhole somewhere and it was not until the middle of January that they came to light and the police went to Spinello's home and took him away to jail.

Mourned as Dead.

New Castle, Pa.—James Smith, a native of this county, mourned dead for thirty-five years, is alive and well in South Africa, according to a letter received by a relative here. Smith, after roving around the world, reached South Africa while the Boer war was in progress. He settled there on the return of peace.

Chops Wood at 83.

Marion, Ohio.—Isaac Staley, eighty-three, claims to be the champion strong man of his age in the state. Every day at his home in Marysville he chops twelve cross-ties—a hard day's work for a man fifty years younger. "Hard outdoor work is the secret of long life," he says.

Quite Right, Surge.

"A place for everything, and everything in its place," said the surgeon, as he skillfully manipulated a dislocated joint back to where it started from.

MESSAGE TO Y. W. C. A. FROM FRANCE.

I must express to you the very great satisfaction and most sincere gratitude of the French Government for the service rendered to the women working in Government factories through the establishment of Y. W. C. A. Foyers des Allices (clubrooms for munitionettes).

These foyers have been an excellent means for bettering the physical conditions and the morale of our workers. They have been constantly used by the women workers, who have found there new elements of dignity and social education.

I must thank you for bringing this to pass, and I hope that Y. W. C. A. work will not disappear with the war, but will be carried on in order to develop the principles of social solidarity which it has inspired.

(Signed) M. LOUCHER,
Minister of Arms and Munitions Manufacture.

Brightening a Room.

The yellow gleam of brass always adds light to any dark nook and used with dark furniture, is most artistic. A pair of brass candlesticks on the mantel, andirons before an open fire, or even a brass jardiniere for ferns, are all especially attractive in a dark room.

Boston's Famous Church.

There were only 2,000 houses in Boston when the North church was built and many members of the congregation came from outlying districts. The corner stone was laid in April, 1723, and the first meeting was held in December of the same year.

The majority of the poorer class in Italy are noted for their general good health. This is to some extent attributed to the fact that the working people of Italy eat less meat than those of any other European nation.

SUBSCRIPTIONS TO TESTIMONIAL DANCE

The American Grenade Loading Corporation is the first concern of the city to have made their subscription to the list for the testimonial dance to be given in the armory on the evening of March 3rd for the benefit of a donation to be made to the families of the late Policeman James Lawrence and Fireman Louis Kolts both of whom gave their lives for the protection and safety of the citizens of the city of Kingston. $100 was subscribed by the Port Ewen loading company and with $100 given by Company M for the purchase of tickets the outlook for the financial success of the affair is most promising. Another large donation has been received by Executive Manager Fowler from one of the Kingston merchants but the name of the giver is withheld by request. Tonight the Wiltwyck Hose company will hold a special meeting for the purpose of taking action in the matter of a donation and every fire company in the city numbering ten in all will call special meetings in the early part of next week for the voicing of their donations and the committee in charge take no hesitancy in stating that each company will donate $50 making a total from the city fire department of $500. President Aaron Cohen and Secretary C. V. A. Decker of the Colonial Glee Club announce a special meeting of the club in the Mitchell house on Monday night for this same purpose.

The committee on patrons report very favorable progress and a list will be made public this week that will surprise every one interested in the welfare of these two families who the citizens of Kingston will try and repay for the services rendered by their deceased.

Extensive advertising is now underway for the ticket sale which started today under the direction of the police and fire departments, a committee of citizens and a number of stores. They will be within the reach of every one at the price of fifty cents and the half dollars will aggregate into large figures if Kingston responds as a whole and individually.

Davis will give a report of the State Grange meeting which he attended as a delegate. The lecturer's hour will be open to the public. Those interested in Miss Stuart's subject will do well to attend this meeting as she is a very pleasing and entertaining speaker.

The first aid class will meet with Mrs. F. Brink Tuesday afternoon when arrangements will be made for examinations.

A missionary program is planned for the Sunday school session February 23rd.

Jolly Six Dance.

On Wednesday evening of this week a group of six popular young men, known as the "Jolly Six," are going to give what is already a very popular dance, at Pythian Hall. Shurter's orchestra is to furnish the music, and there have been a great many tickets sold. But there will be room for more to attend. The young men giving this dance are William Engle, Henry Engle, Arthur Carson, Frank Wynne, Floyd Brown and Thomas Gadd. They are hoping to see all of their friends and acquaintances on Wednesday evening.

Mr. Graham made many friends, far and near, by his loving and kind ways, both relatives and friends. We are in the deepest sympathy with his family who mourn his loss more than any one.

Mr. Clackler and sons are busy getting out wood for the season.

SHRINERS' BALL TO OUTSHINE THEM ALL

Anticipation has become realization to the public of Kingston since the Kingston Shriners' Association have declared everything in readiness for their annual dance that will take place in the armory on Tuesday evening and a rare opportunity is offered every one whether they be lovers of dancing, better music or spectacular entertainment.

A general impression of the success of former Shriner affairs is admitted but the 1919 function of the local association will eclipse everything ever attempted by former presidents and Sam Brown will be victorious as executive head for dance promoting. Collins's orchestra and the featured colored jazz band will furnish concert music from 8:30 until 9:00 o'clock for the entertainment of the guests. From 9 until 10:00 o'clock these two popular orchestras will alternate in playing dance music this one hour of dancing preceding the evening's acts of entertainment. Dancing will continue from 11:15 until 12 at which time a short intermission will interrupt for the serving of refreshments by the ladies of the Industrial Home, after which dancing will continue until two o'clock.

Frank A. Keeney has made possible the bringing to Kingston for the Shriners four of the headline acts of the New York theatrical world, assisted by the untiring efforts of the president of the association, Sam Brown. These acts are individually and collectively the greatest ever witnessed at one show and they will be about of fifteen minutes duration each.

Undoubtedly the headliner of the bill will remain a secret until Tuesday night, but it can be safely said that it will be one of the most prominent male soloists of the vocal musical world.

The other three acts are composed of the six "Delories," sensational acrobats; White and McAndrews, artists of ballroom dancing; and Andrew and King, in novelty and fancy dancing.

The exclusive noticeable and distinguishing feature of the affair will be the wearing of the red fez by all members of the Shriners Association and there will be every member on the job to see that President Brown's plans are brought to a successful conclusion. Out of town Shriners will be numbered from the following cities: New York, Newark, N. J., Kerhonkson, Saugerties, Highland, Catskill and Albany.

The present pace indicates a record-breaking crowd for next Tuesday night and the local association is looking forward to realizing a large sum for their charitable gift.

Colonial Glee Club Funds.

A special meeting of the Colonial Glee Club has been called for this evening at 8 o'clock in the Mitchell House by President Aaron Cohen and Secretary C. V. A. Decker, to take action in the matter of donating from their funds a sum of money to the benefit fund of Policeman Lawrence and Fireman Kolts, both of whom lost their lives in the performance of their duties as city officers. Before joining the police force Policeman Lawrence was a paid member of the Wiltwyck Hose Company and at the time of his death he was an active member of the same company. As this fund was raised by the Glee Club for the benefit of sick and disabled firemen and their families, Policeman Lawrence's relatives are eligible for it as well as the relatives of Fireman Kolts. Considering the importance of his meeting it is expected that every member of the club will present to voice their views on this all important donation.

Chicken Supper at St. John's.

The ladies of St. John's Episcopal Church are arranging to give one of their delicious chicken suppers at the Parish House on Wall street on the evening of Wednesday, February 26, and ask all of their friends to remember the date in order to take supper with them.

Water Protects Coal.

An interesting result of recent experiments with coal is the demonstration of the benefits of submerging the mineral in water. Coal deteriorates in the air, and there is the danger of spontaneous combustion, while when submerged not only was the fire danger eliminated, but scarcely any deterioration was shown. Experimentally, coal kept in the air showed from 2 to 10 per cent of loss in nine months, while when submerged there was scarcely any loss at all.

HERE AND THERE ABOUT THE TOWN

The Stroller Hears a "Brand New Reason" Advanced For the Mild Winter Weather—Bees vs. Groundhog School of Weather Prophets.

"The past week has certainly furnished some weather for this time of the year," remarked the customer laying down the newspaper he had been reading.

"It certainly has," agreed the busy barber, "and it reminds me that a brand new reason for the mild weather was advanced this morning."

"How was that?" asked the customer.

"Joe Allton was in getting shaved," replied the barber, "and we were talking over the weather, and he said that he believed the mild season was due to the fact that the gulf stream was 285 miles further north than usual."

"Was he kidding?" asked the customer.

"I didn't ask him," replied the barber, "but just the same you have got to hand it to him as a weather prophet."

"How is that?" asked the customer.

"Early in the fall," explained the barber, "Joe was in and he remarked then that we were due to have a mild winter if the bees were to be believed."

"The bees?" interrupted the customer.

"It seems," continued the barber, "that two of his friends go honeying every fall, and this fall they came back with the yarn that it would be a mild winter as the bees had not made much honey, and as they had not prepared for a cold winter it would be mild."

"The groundhog school don't agree on that proposition though," said the customer.

"I know it," replied the barber, "but so far this winter the bee school of weather prophets seem to have won hands down, when it came to guessing the brand of weather to be handed out."

THE STROLLER.

After the Fire.

When fire has swept a bit of woodland the flowers that start the following season are often not the same as grew there before and frequently are strange to the locality. Queer legends have grown up to account for this fact, but the explanation is in reality very simple. Down under the surface soil these seeds have been waiting no one knows how long. They never had a chance before fire gave it.

SYMPHONY CONCERTS TO BE RESUMED

One of the livest, most accomplishing meetings of the Board of Directors of the Kingston Symphony Society ever held was held recently when it was determined that the Kingston Symphony Orchestra, Prof. George M. Muller, director, would give two concerts this season. The first will be given on March 24, and the second some time in May, the definite date not yet having been determined. This is indeed good news for Kingston music lovers, who among the other good things which they have given up the last year to help out in the war, counted musical entertainments of all sorts. In fact the Kingston Symphony concerts have been missed much more than many people would have thought they would be missed, and the announcement that there will be two concerts this season, is therefore especially gratifying.

The Board of Directors are now negotiating for notable artists to appear with the orchestra at both concerts, and ask the readers of The Freeman to keep watch for later announcements regarding these coming concerts.

The musicians making up the personnel of the orchestra, have been working hard this past fall and winter and will have an exceptionally fine program of orchestral music to offer. The esteem in which musicians who have been privileged to be members of the Kingston Symphony Orchestra in the past, have been held, has been shown by the fact that so many of them have held important positions in the very best musical bands and orchestras during the war, and most of them have seen service overseas.

The Board of Directors hope very shortly to announce the place of the first concert, the soloist or soloists and the program. One thing they do ask, and that is that the people of Kingston keep the date in mind, March 24, and plan to attend this concert.

All over the country, such concerts as will be given by the Kingston Symphony Society, will prove a vital factor in the uplift and reconstruction work upon which we are entering, for our returned men are coming back asking for the best in all lines of entertainment, especially that of music. Here is where Kingston can outrank most cities of its size, especially in the empire state.

SAW HUMOR OF THE SITUATION

Commanding Officer, Dreaded as a Martinet, Proved He Was Not Altogether a "Bear."

There is a certain major-general in the A. E. F. who is a great stickler for discipline and military forms. Most generals are that, but this one is a regular martinet. The soldier who fails to salute and to "snap it out" when the general is around is in for an extended spell of that intensive form of culinary labor known as "kitchen police," or for something worse.

One afternoon the general was driving along when his car met a soldier on foot. The enlisted man stared hard at the vehicle and its august passenger, but made no move to extend the required courtesy.

The general was indignant. He ordered his driver to stop and hailed the plodding private in his best military voice.

"What do you mean by failing to salute me?" he roared.

"I beg your pardon, sir, but I didn't know you were a general," apologized the soldier, standing at attention.

"You didn't know I was a general, eh? Well, didn't you see those two stars on my car? Don't you know what two stars mean?"

"Yes, sir, I know what they mean. They mean that you have two sons in the army," said the "buck."

The general told this story himself that evening at the staff mess and now his aids and the other staff officers know that he isn't such a "bear" as they had thought him.—Exchange.

How It Was.

"Muh daughter-in-law, dat weighs two hund'ed and fifty pounds, fell downstairs yiste'd'y, and broke three legs."

"What yo' talkin' 'bout, sah? No lady has got three legs, no difference if she am yo' daughter-in-law!"

"No, sah; but she landed on her skinny husband, muh son, as it were, and broke two legs for him and one for herse'f."—Kansas City Star.

No Romeo.

"Why did you reject Mr. Snippers?"

"He's too conservative for a girl of my romantic temperament."

"Indeed?"

"Yes. When I asked him if he would love me always he said he didn't expect to live always."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

LOCAL MEN AT W. S. S. BANQUET

Carter Glass, Secretary of the Treasury, met the County Chairmen and Vice Chairmen of the War Savings Stamp movement at the Bankers' Club in the Equitable Building, New York, last Saturday, and discussed details of the campaign to sell stamps of the 1919 issue. Other speakers were Benjamin Strong, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank; Guy Emerson, Vice Director of the Government Loan Association; Pierre Jay, Chairman Federal Reserve Bank, Vice-President Tadney of Prudential Insurance Company; Martin Vogel, assistant treasurer of the United States; Mr. Lester of the Treasury Department, and Major Lorillard Spencer, battalian commander of the old Fifteenth Regiment, N. Y. N. G., now the 369th Infantry, just returned from France. Major Spencer was military aide to Governor Whitman and attended Kingston's last automobile show.

Mayor Canfield and Postmaster DeWitt report an enjoyable and beneficial trip. A fine luncheon was served by the Federal Reserve Bank at the conclusion of Secretary Glass's address and the meeting was resumed thereafter. Photos were taken of the group.

An improvement in sales in Ulster county was reported for February, also less redeemed W. S. S. It is very important that sales continue of the 1919 issue and as few 1918 stamps cashed in as possible. Uncle Sam needs the ready cash to pay its obligations even though an armistice is in effect.

ST. MARY'S TO ERECT RECTORY

The Rev. Dean John J. Hickey made several important announcements at the masses Sunday in St. Mary's Church regarding his plans for many improvements to the church property this year. The interior of the church will also be repainted and decorated, and the gallery will be rebuilt and remodeled. It is also expected to erect a new iron fence about St. Mary's cemetery. Some necessary work has been delayed on account of the war, but during the spring and summer the proposed improvements will be taken up and completed.

BISHOP WARNE AT ST. JAMES'S

The visit of the bishop of India, Bishop Warne, to St. James's Methodist Church on Sunday morning was indeed a memorable event in the history of that church, for seldom has a preacher, either from the homeland or from foreign fields, so stirred the hearts of his hearers.

He is a man with a winning personality, and he knows how to present a cause so that people will understand and appreciate.

His discourse, which was on "The World Outlook" was most uplifting while the reports of the work done were most encouraging. His description of India, its people and its opportunities were deeply interesting. He told the people that now that there were between sixty and seventy thousand converts on the "waiting list," awaiting baptism because there were not workers enough to give them the proper instruction.

His talks in the Sunday school were fascinating, and those who heard them will never forget them, for he has the art of arresting and holding the attention of the children. He made a plea, not simply for centenary offerings, but for the consecration of young lives to the work of making Christ known to a needy world. Those who missed the bishop at the centenary service missed a wonderful treat.

brought on the last war. The rulers of Europe wanted war. They have all been ready for war and on the point of going to war at any time. They have cultivated the spirit of war, and never before were preparations made on such a large scale for war by all nations. At last the greatest and bloodiest war the world has seen broke loose like a storm carrying destruction in its course and leaving scars in its wake; murder, bloodshed and hatred held full sway for four and a quarter years.

We never had anything to do with starting this war. We tried to be neutral. But when the grim shadow of war fell across the sea, when submarines sank our ships, when our natural rights upon the seas were denied to us then we entered the great conflict and made common cause with the Allied nations. Our brave soldiers have performed the job which they were sent overseas to perform. When the Allied armies were face to face with defeat, when the outlook for the cause in which they were engaged was grave, when three great nations were not able to defeat the common foe, our fleets and armies took a hand in the struggle and turned the tide of far into victory and peace.

Peace, how sweet this word sounds. When it came announcing the end of the war it made everybody glad. What must it have meant to our boys at the front when the order came "Cease firing!" The American army was the determining cause of victory. Our boys brought new hope and new courage into the hearts of the Allied armies which were in a mighty bad fix and had to get help from somewhere. The help came from America.

Our boys made splendid fighters. They showed themselves able to hold their own when the feats of courage, endurance and aggressiveness were most severe. Their record stands out bright and clear. Their heroic service must not be forgotten. The banner they have carried forward in war victoriously must be held high in the days of peace. Immortal honor hangs on our glorious flag.

"We have watched our young men marching away. Our good wishes and fervent prayers followed them. And now we see them come home. Oh, the joy and bliss of their coming home. But many will never come home. Thousands who have made the supreme sacrifice of life are sleeping in the blood-soaked soil of France. They are not dead; they are sleeping, resting in their tents, and shall yet hear the command to rise and march.

These men died on the battlefields. Did they die saved? Were they prepared to meet death? Soldiers are always ready to meet death. They look death in the eye without flinching. Christian soldiers resign themselves to God's will and commend their souls into His gracious keeping. A soldier on the eve of an engagement was heard to exclaim: "God, if on the day of battle I forget thee, do thou not forget me!" Another soldier in the midst of roar of battle strife prayed:

Dear Lord, thy blood has saved for heaven
This lowly life of mine.
If thou hast need of this, my blood,
Lord, take it—it is thine.

Among the many American graves in France is the grave of one of our boys—Arthur Gill. We cannot visit his grave; we cannot adorn it with flowers and the Old Glory under which he served and died; but we are met here to do honor to his memory, and to express our deepest sympathy to his bereaved mother and to all who mourn his death. May they accept the sacrifice imposed upon them in the same spirit in which our dead hero on the battlefield offered up his life for his country.

Arthur Gill, son of Mrs. Paul Radatz, formerly Mrs. Frank Gill, was born on February 12, 1900, and was baptized and confirmed in our church. Since his confirmation he was faithful to his Lord and true to our Lutheran Church. He was a teacher in our Sunday school until he entered the military service on July 20, 1917, at the age of but 18 years, when he enlisted in Poughkeepsie and was sent to Training Camp Meade, Md. He sailed to France last May as a member of Company I, 107th Infantry. While away from home he wrote many loving letters to his mother. In one of his last letters he says: "I was always praying, but never as much since I am over here." He expressed the sincere hope to come home again. Yes, he has gone home—home to his heavenly home to join that grand army of the saved.

Our young hero died in action on the 29th of September. His body has been recovered and his grave registered, and there is no danger of its loss or neglect. "May he rest in peace and eternal light shine over him."

Let the thought console you, weeping mother, that your son not only has discharged most faithfully his sacred obligation to his country but has also been faithful to his Lord who says: "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life."

Beautiful is the palm of peace, solemn are the laurels of war, but all these crowns pale and wither before the crown which Jesus Christ holds in His hand, ready for the victor. May God help us all to be faithful unto death and at last receive the crown of life.

HURLEY.

Hurley, Feb. 17.—Although the clerk of the weather had handed out an execrable brand of weather, still the Hurley folk, in spite of this unfavorable condition, attended the valentine supper in full numbers, which was given by the Ladies' Missionary Society, not only Hurley folk however, but a number of people from outside the village braved the weather and helped in making the evening a success. If the old adage is true that the way to capture a man is through his appetite, then the committee in charge of the supper came well over the top, for the list of good things comprised some of Hurley's best contrivances in the cooking line. You have never tasted better scalloped salmon in your life, never eaten finer potato salad, never enjoyed a composite jelly better than what you found or could have found at the supper on Friday night and that was not all, the best bread in the world sliced and buttered exquisitely, cake, well we all know Hurley cakebakers have a wide reputation and so it goes, not only a success with the table accomplishments but with the social side also. Miss Myrtle Slater presided over the valentine booth admirably, dispensing the tokens indiscriminately, impartially and above all profitably to the treasury of the society. Of course the younger element enjoyed this feature even as we older heads, years and years ago. To be sure some strange coincidences took place but all went merrier for the fair allotted. A. R. Myer donned apron and dispensed the ice cream. Messrs. Cole and Hotaling took charge of the tickets while the committee in charge of the supper looked after everything and all measure of praise was given to them for the success of the event. Over $36 was netted for the work of the society.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chipp were week end visitors at the Ten Eyck homestead. Mr. Chipp is engaged in work for the New York City Water Board at Grand Gorge.

Mrs. Fred Foertner was a visitor at the Foertner home early in the week.

Mr. and Mrs. William Newkirk were visitors in the village on Tuesday; with them was their son, William, who has lately returned from France.

Miss Mabel Taggart returned on Friday from her trip to New York city and Philadelphia.

Mr. Durfee of Central Bridge is visiting his son at the parsonage.

The town board met in the village on Saturday afternoon; the usual routine business was passed upon; Thomas Newkirk was appointed fire warden for this district; the board recommended appropriations of state money as follows: $2,000 for Lucas Turnpike and $500 for the road from the stone yard to Zandhoek.

Hurley Talent Coming to Kingston.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Fair Street Reformed Church, are exceedingly fortunate in that they are to give, through the courtesy of a number of young people of Hurley, a little farce comedy which was given in that wide awake village greatly to the delight of a large audience. The title of the comedy is "Mrs. Tubbs in Shanty-Town," and it will be presented at the Fair Street Church Sunday school room on Friday evening of this week, February 21. The full program will be announced in a later issue of The Freeman. One thing is sure, attendance at this performance will mean a right good laugh.

HOW DOGS ARE BEING TRAINED TO AID BLIND FRENCH SOLDIERS

—Training of dogs to lead the blind has become an important institution where thousands of animals will eventually be prepared to lead sightless soldiers. The work is being done under the direction of the military authorities by amateurs who owned kennels of police and hunting dogs before the war.

Several hundred poodles are continually trotting about the neighborhood and through the village, some of them "graduates" of the big training school, leading "poilus" who left their sight in the trenches or in the battlefield. This real experience puts the finishing touch to the dog's education. The training is divided into two periods, during the first of which the dog learns what is called "carriage," or road behavior, abstinence from quarrels and resistance to temptations to playing with other dogs, neglect of garbage boxes and butcher shops. Next he is taught to avoid obstacles and how to pick his way across the street with regard to vehicles. Then he is turned over to a sightless hero of the war and kept under observation for a few days to make sure that his training is complete.

The blind man, too, requires a little training with the dog, for he finds it an entirely different matter to follow the string after having been led by the arm. Guided by a person, he abandons himself to his conductor and loses all notion of self-reliance, feeling that he is dominated by another will than his own. Consequently he insufficiently develops his remaining senses to make up for the one that is lacking. Led by a dog which must be ordered, no matter how efficient his training, he develops the sense of touch and hearing with remarkable rapidity, through the necessity of remaining constantly attentive.

CONSIDERED IDEAL WAR CROP

Why the Cultivation of Artichokes Is Being Encouraged by the French Authorities.

Jerusalem artichokes, the sort grown in Michigan, are being boomed in France as an ideal war crop, for the reason that they grow quickly and abundantly in any kind of ground except that which is wet and marshy. They derive most of their sustenance from the air and not from the earth, but the richer the earth the larger will be the tubers.

Henri Blin in La Nature gives some instructions about their cultivation. The tubers should be planted as soon as the frost is out of the ground, at a depth of from two to three inches, in rows about 12 inches apart and about nine inches between tubers. As soon as the shoots appear they are to be harrowed; in May they are to be earthed up and again in June. The cultivation is like that of potatoes.

They may be harvested by the end of October and the harvest will last until the end of March, for frost does not injure the tubers at all, so they may be left in the ground all winter.

Jerusalem artichokes will yield from 22 to 24 tons to the acre and 10 to 12 tons of excellent forage, which should be cut in September.

How Soldier Sacrificed Himself.

Corp. Homer Wheaton, the first Syracuse (N. Y.) boy to be killed in action in France, lost his life by throwing his body over a grenade knowing that it meant instant death to him, but in doing so saved the lives of four comrades near by. This information was given by Sergt. Edward Creed of the 101st regiment, who has just returned from the trenches.

Sergeant Creed says the five were in a dugout preparing for a raid in No Man's Land and were heavily armed with grenades. One fell to the floor, the pin dropping out, and it would explode in five seconds. Corporal Wheaton without any hesitancy leaped forward and dropped on the bomb to save his comrades. He made no effort to grab it, but deliberately sacrificed his life to protect the others. It exploded, instantly killing him.

How Girl Found Lost Watch.

As the result of a dream, Miss Bessie Burns, an employee of the Eaton Rapids woolen mills, Charlotte, Mich., has found a gold watch she lost several weeks ago.

Miss Burns had advertised the loss and had given the timepiece up for lost when she had a dream one night that the watch was secreted among a bunch of papers in a filing cabinet at the mill. She told this to her parents the next morning, but they laughed at her. However, the dream was so vivid that she looked in the filing cabinet and found her timepiece just as it appeared in her dream. —Exchange.

How Wounds Are Now Treated.

A. Weld uses an ointment of boracic acid, to which he adds one, two or three drops of a 1:1000 adrenalin solution to each five grammes of ointment. The results obtained were a decrease in proliferation of granulation tissue, narrower cicatrices and a diminution of the wound secretions.—Munchener Medizinische Wochenschrift.

Mountain Laurel.

The fact that mountain laurel blooms on three great national holidays, Memorial day, Flag day and Fourth of July, is one reason why the National Federation of Women's clubs advocates that flower for the national emblem.

DIFFERENT WAYS TO SHIFT GEARS

Some Good Advice for Beginners With a Few "Don'ts" That Are Worth While.

SOME OF THE DIFFICULTIES

Expert May Be Able to Perform Task Without Disastrous Results—Suggestions That Will Eliminate Wear and Tear.

Thousands of motorists, each season, are having their first experience in the operating of sliding gear transmissions. Changing gears is a matter of some little difficulty in the beginning at least, and it is a fact that quite a proportion of operators never learn to shift gears quietly and to the best advantage.

There are a few difficulties which the inexperienced driver should be warned against, among which are the following:

Some Difficulties.

Attempting to shift from one gear to another without first throwing out the clutch. An expert may be able to do this without noise or disastrous results but, in general, it should never be attempted. Attempting to shift from neutral to low (or any other) gear, when the car is at rest, without first throwing out the clutch until the clutch shaft comes to rest. Trying to engage the reverse gear without first allowing the car to come to a full stop. Attempting to change from neutral to low gear with the car at rest and the engine running too fast.

Among other "don'ts" for the unskilled operator of sliding gears are these:

Don't fail to know exactly where the "reverse" position of the gearshift lever is, and don't fail scrupulously to avoid this position, so long as the car is moving forward.

Don't try to shift from a higher gear to a lower gear without letting the car speed slacken somewhat before so doing.

Don't try to change from high gear to low without letting the car nearly stop.

Don't fail to speed up the car somewhat before changing from a lower to a higher gear.

Few Suggestions.

The following out of these few suggestions will eliminate much unnecessary noise and wear and tear.

Transmissions, as built today, are extremely rugged, but, nevertheless, mishandling such as the driver is here warned against may chip the teeth of the gears or even cause the breakage of shafts and other parts.

It always should be remembered that two gears cannot be forced into engagement quickly and easily unless they are running at somewhat near the same speed. This is an important point in gear-shifting.

NON-STOPPING AUTOHEARSE

Travels 567 Miles From Lakewood, N. J., to Worcester, Mass., for Funeral.

A non-stop automobile hearse trip from Lakewood, N. J., to Worcester, Mass., a distance of 567 miles, was made by L. P. Conant, undertaker. By continuous driving he was able to bring the body of Mrs. Minnie Wackwitz to Worcester in time for the funeral services.

OPENINGS IN HOOD OF CAR IMPORTANT

Louvres Keep Temperature at Point of Greatest Efficiency.

Slits in Sides of Metal Hoods Are Not Fad of Automobile Designer—Absence Means Back Pressure on Radiator Fan.

In the mind of more than one man who owns and drives his own motor car the slits cut in the sides of the metal hood are purely a fad of the automobile designer, and excuse their existence by making a rakish looking bonnet. Judging from externals, it might seem that this is the case, since in a number of automobiles the hood openings, or louvres, either have lost caste completely, or have been so reduced in number as to lose any hint of significance.

The louvre, nevertheless, is rather an important factor in keeping the motor temperature at a point that permits the car to operate at its greatest efficiency. The air that has warmed in passing over the engine finds its exit to the outer atmosphere through these openings, and in this way opens a path for a constant stream of fresh, cool air above the working parts.

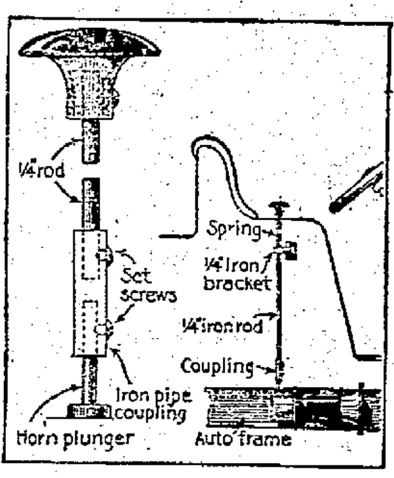
The absence of louvres, or the presence of only a limited number, means a back pressure of warm air on the radiator fan. On the contrary, it follows that the greater the number of louvres the greater will be the velocity of the unwarmed air flowing under the bonnet.

In many parts of the country, where temperature conditions do not require the utmost of cooling systems, attention to this detail of cooling system construction is a matter of little consequence. However, in hot, dry regions, motor cars must travel on their cooling systems as well as on their fuel tanks, and every item that points the way to a better radiator system deserves at least a passing notice from the motorist.

AUTOMOBILE HORN ON FRAME

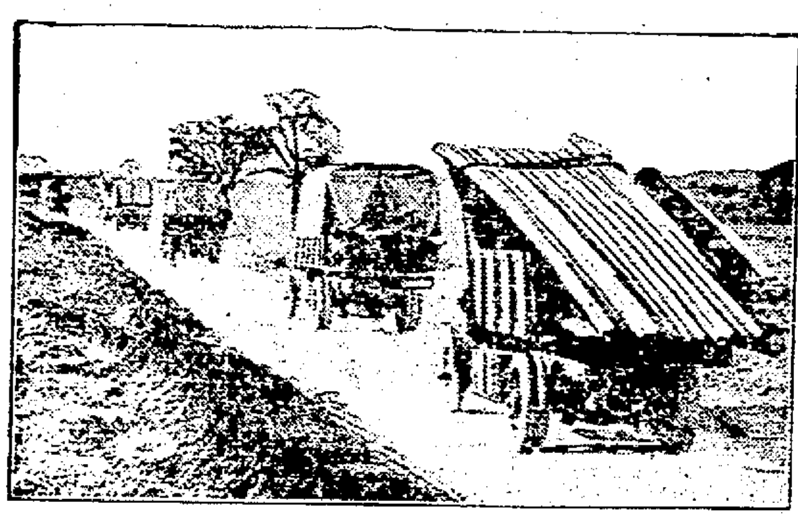
Device Is Attached to an Extension Rod Out of Way of Driver as Shown in Illustration.

To place the horn out of the way of the driver, an extension-rod for the push-knob was applied as shown in the illustration. The horn is placed on the frame out of the way, and the horn plunger is lengthened with a rod which carries the push-knob at the top. A bracket is attached to the seat arm and a coil-spring placed between the bracket and the knob.—P. P. Avery, in Popular Science Monthly.



The automobile horn is placed on the frame out of the way and is worked by an extension rod on the push-knob.

AVOID OVERLOADING TRUCK, BECAUSE TOO HEAVY LOAD OFTEN MEANS RUINED TIRES



Heavily Loaded Trucks Carrying Supplies to Front in France.

Many men of moderate means who have bought motor trucks during the war period and have gone into the transportation business have had little training or experience in truck operation and, because of this fact, stand in a position to incur heavy expenses unnecessarily — expenses which the experienced truck owner would be sure to avoid.

Business Attracts.

Attracted by the possibility of getting established in a paying business, these men have invested in trucks with the thought that they could quickly acquire the knowledge necessary to a proper handling of their machines.

To these men who are new in the trucking business a big tire company gives as its most important word of advice, "avoid overloading your truck, because too heavy a load means ruined tires."

More solid tires go to the scrap heap prematurely because of overloading than for any other reason. A good solid tire is constructed to give its full value in miles, and a quick and sure way to cut down mileage is to put too heavy a load on the truck. A team of horses may occasionally be called on to carry a load which seems too heavy for them and not be injured.

Mistake of Owners.

Some truck owners think they can call on their solid tires to carry an over-heavy load occasionally in the same way, but in this they make a mistake. When once a solid tire is battered out because of overloading, it is ruined. The overloading may occur the very first time the tire is used, and instead of giving the thousands of miles which a well constructed solid should give, the tire's usefulness is spoiled at the outset.

Relieves Pain of Sting.

The Savoyards rub a crushed clove of garlic upon a spot that has been stung by a wasp or bee. This makes the swelling go down and drives away the pain.

YANKEE REGULARS IN NORTHERN RUSSIA

Major General Ironside of the British army, commander in chief of the allied expeditionary forces in northern Russia, is shown inspecting a detachment of United States regulars under his command. This photograph was taken at Archangel, where the troops were enjoying a ten-day rest period after intense campaigning along the Vologda railway. The company is "M" of the Three Hundred and Thirty-ninth U. S. infantry.

Entertain Roumanian Countess at American Show in France.

Picture shows are being put on in France without cameras, scenery or any of the necessary properties, according to reports reaching the National Y. W. C. A. from a Y. W. C. A. nurses' hut in a Base Hospital.

Having no film or camera, the nurses at Base decided to put on a living picture show and invited a group of nurses from a nearby hospital to be the audience. It was a real thriller, one of the wild and woolly west variety, with bucking bronchoes and wild rides on broom and mop horses.

Imagination supplied the scenery, with the exception of placards, which announced "the sun" when it was supposed to be shining or "cacti" when the cow punchers rode across the desert.

Countess Vacaresca of Roumania, who had been talking to the nurses on conditions in the German courts at the time she was lady-in-waiting to the Queen of Roumania, was the most appreciative of all the guests.

Health in Outdoor Sports.

The great increase in the number of inmates at asylums for the insane is to be taken as a sign of the worry and uncertainty of our times. The resumption of outdoor play as soon as possible will restore equilibrium. Did an old base ball player ever become insane?

The Name Rose.

The name "rose" varies only slightly among different nations. The Romans called it rosa—a form adhered to in Italian, Portuguese, Spanish and Russian. In Polish it is roża; in Dutch, roos; in Swedish, ros, and in French, German and Danish, rose.

Height of Clouds.

Clouds are very variable in height—from 300 to 2,000 feet. The clouds in thunderstorms may be very deep—from two to five miles and more—hence the appearance as to distance is very deceptive. Cumulus clouds are intermediate.

No Separation in Sight.

Mrs. Mark—"Mrs. Skanner tells me that her husband is an ardent lover of books." Mr. Mark—"I wish he'd prove fickle to two volumes of mine which he enticed away more than five years ago."—Buffalo Express.

Remember the Golden Rule.

Perhaps the person isn't living who hasn't certain little peculiarities, but that is no reason why some narrow-minded individual should take it upon herself to weave into whole cloth these tiny, discordant ravelings and then pass on her "discovery" to anyone who will listen. If the listener is a believer in the Golden Rule she will not only turn a deaf ear to such a recital, but dismiss her uncharitable informant as quickly as possible.—Exchange.

What Canals Can Do.

There are 400 miles of navigable waterways in Britain, yet the actual percentage of craft on them at the moment is less than one per mile. On the other hand, Germany owes much to her highly efficient and economical canal system. Her water roads link up 700 industrial centers, and goods sent by canal route cost much less than by rail.

Saved to Some Effect.

In Greenville, N. H., a man who believes in saving coppers and nickels paid his taxes with $139.35 in Buffalo nickels, $11.80 in old-style nickels, $6 in Lincoln cents and Indian-head cents. Buying a buggy, nearly new, at auction, he paid for it in coppers, and he also paid $27 in cents for a purchase made away from home.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 17.—There was brisk trading at the opening of the stock market today and further advances were made in a number of issues with a few stocks reflecting realizing and reacting after a strong opening. Marine Preferred ranged from 102⅝ to 103⅝ and American International advanced one point to 56. It was some time before the committee could decide the opening for Pan-American Petroleum, the stock selling 1½ points apart on different sides of the crowd. The range was established at from 77 to 78½. Mexican Petroleum advanced ⅞ to 180½. Royal Dutch was in supply and yielded 4 points to 92. Baldwin was again the most prominent of the steel stocks, gaining 1 point to 75½ with a reaction to 74⅝. Distillers rose ⅝ to 57⅞ and then reacted to 56½.

The tone was irregular during the forenoon. Royal Dutch dropped four points to 92. Pan-American moved up 2¼ to 78½ and then lost most of this gain. Studebaker, after touching 52¾ advanced to 55. General Motors moved up to 137. Baldwin reacted to 74 and United States Steel rose to 92¼.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Mrs. Harry Myers entertained at her home on Albany avenue the El Merillo Club at cards Friday evening. The first prize was awarded to D. G. Kavanagh and Mrs. E. L. Merritt, and the consolation prize to C. R. Cummings and Mrs. Kavanagh.

Invitations have been received in this city for the wedding of Cleon Boice Murray to Gladys McDowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McDowell, of Ellenville. The wedding will take place Thursday, February 20th, at high noon at St. John's Episcopal Church. A reception is to follow at the home of the bride's parents.

The many friends of Mrs. Berton Shultis gave her a birthday surprise party at her home in St. Remy February 13. A goodly number were in attendance, refreshments were served including a large and beautiful birthday cake. The gifts were numerous and were of use and beauty, among them a substantial check from her husband. Games were indulged in and toward evening the guests departed voting Mrs. Shultis a royal entertainer and wishing her many happy returns of the day.

Monday evening, February 10, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brooks, who have resided in Alligerville the past twelve years, formerly residing in the New York city reservoir section, after spending a strenuous day getting ready for an auction preparatory to moving to their new home, were surprised when a number of automobiles drove up to the house. The automobiles were loaded with friends who formerly resided at Ashton, Shokan, West Shokan, Olive Bridge and Olive City, but now reside at Kerhonkson, Accord, Stone Ridge and Kyserike. They were all former school mates, some pupils of Mrs. Brooks, neighbors and acquaintances, together with a number of friends of Alligerville, numbering in all about sixty. Mr. and Mrs. Brooks invited them into the house and a thoroughly enjoyable social time was enjoyed by all when old times were talked over. Later refreshments were served. Some, who owing to sickness, were unable to be present sent their regrets. It was early next morning before the happy surprise party broke up and the guests returned to their homes after one of the most enjoyable evenings spent in a long time.

ESOPUS.

Esopus, Feb. 17.—Mrs. S. E. Mott and son, S. E., Jr., spent most of last week in Newburgh visiting relatives. On Sunday morning Mr. Mott and daughter, Miss Hazel, motored to Newburgh and upon the return trip were accompanied by Mrs. Mott and son.

The following pupils of the village school successfully passed the recent regents' examinations: Thelma Drake and Gladys Lyons, geography and spelling; Harold Lyons, history, Quentin Hummel and Leslie Lund, geography and history. These boys and girls are to be congratulated for passing in every study they tried for.

Alexander Smith arrived home on Saturday evening from his stay of over two months in Moore Haven, Florida. Mr. Smith left Florida on Tuesday last and notwithstanding the fact that severe storms were encountered on Thursday and Friday nights, the steamer arrived in New York harbor four hours ahead of schedule time. On account of a heavy fog they were unable to land for some time but finally made fast at 6 a. m. The many friends of Mr. Smith are much pleased to see him once more and his welcome after the church service on Sunday evening was cordial indeed. He is looking fine, having gained several pounds in weight since leaving Esopus. He is quite enthusiastic about the southern climate but thinks he still prefers the north for the summer months.

Mrs. J. I. Terwilliger and grandson, Roscoe T. Terwilliger, of West Park, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Smith.

Miss Florence Sheeley and Miss Mabel Slocum of Newburgh were week end guests of Mrs. Amy Sheeley. Miss Florence is a granddaughter of Mrs. Sheeley.

Piccolo Midgets' Farm Sold.

Philip Elting, as referee, sold at auction at the court house this noon under mortgage foreclosure about 200 acres of land with residence, barn and outbuildings in the town of Shandaken, near Phoenicia, in the action of Elnora Breithaupt and Walter G. Breithaupt against Adolph Schemmel, Frederick Otto Schemmel and Alexander Ebert and others. The defendants are the well-known actors in vaudeville, known as the Piccolo Midgets. The property was struck off to the plaintiffs for $2,500. John W. Eckert was attorney for the plaintiffs.

Had Right Idea, Anyway.

My youngest daughter is quite a peachy little person and it is quite amusing at times to hear her air her views. The day after Christmas several children from the neighborhood came in to see her gifts and to play with her. When exhibiting her presents she said in her best peachy manner: "I gived away a lot of things and I 'joyed my Christmas so much 'cause it's nicer to be a giver than a taker."—Chicago Tribune.

WELL-FILLED ICEHOUSE MEANS SUMMER SAFETY

Sour Milk and a Bitter Man—He Tried to Run a Dairy Without Ice.

LAST CALL FOR ICE HARVESTING

Fairly Safe Storage May Be Secured in Cellar, or Some Other Convenient Nook.

LIBERAL USE OF SAWDUST

Many Other Advantages Besides Keeping Milk Cool During Heated Term —There Appears to Be No Justification for Neglect.

Probably the greatest advantage from having a farm ice house properly filled is that the milk may always be kept cool. But there are a score of other advantages not to be ignored. Some of them pertain to things that may be classed as—summer luxuries? —no, summer necessities. Ice cream, iced tea, lemonade, buttermilk, iced watermelons, iced cantaloupes, iced fruits—every one of them an item in the summer diet that can be regarded as contributions to the health, happiness and prosperity of the family. Unless there is natural ice in the farm ice house, they are rarely to be had. Even if the head of the family is perfectly willing to bear the expense of buying artificial ice, the time is sure to come—in most cases, it comes frequently—when there is not time to get the ice out from town, times when everybody is busy in the harvest or hay field and when the familiar but disheartening plea of "let it wait till tomorrow" is heard and must be heeded.

Ice Relieves Suffering.

Indeed, it can be heeded with some degree of patience when the ice would mean only a more palatable dessert for dinner. But, on one of those hot harvest days, one of the men is brought in overheated from the field, or one of the children becomes suddenly ill of something that an ice pack would go a long way toward relieving. Such things seem to occur just at those times when the icebox is empty—and the need is so urgent that there is no time for going to town for ice. Unnecessary suffering is the inevitable result—inevitable except when there is on the farm an ice house filled from the pond or stream during the winter.

The harvesting of ice is so simple a matter that there appears no justification for its neglect by those who live in natural ice regions. Yet, the fact remains that many such do neglect it. Even for those who have not a regularly constructed ice house, there are possibilities. Ice may be stored and kept with a fair degree of success in the cellar, a corner of the woodshed, in any one of a score of nooks, to be found about every farmstead. Such storage places cannot be recommended for permanent use. They entail a much heavier loss by melting than do properly constructed houses. But, with the proper use of sawdust, planing-mill shavings or other cheap insulator, they can be made to keep ice through the summer. The United States department of agriculture goes so far as to say that, where ice is abundant and the cost of gathering it low, storage in makeshift places may be more economical than the building of scientifically constructed houses, and does not hesitate to recommend it as an expedient to serve until there is time for the construction of the right sort of house.

Thick Cakes Not Essential.

Of course, if the ice is to be available for next summer, there is no time for constructing houses now. This is nearly the last call for filling the houses already built—and for making use of such expedients as are possible on farms where there is no ice house.

The mild character of the early part of the winter, of course, has made the potential supply of ice less than usual, but the actual supply—much greater than will be gathered—is adequate for all needs. It is not necessary that ice be of any particular thickness. Six-inch ice is desirable, but it is not essential. Four-inch or even three-inch ice will serve every purpose that thicker ice could be made to serve. And it does not require weather very cold and long-continued to put a three or four-inch coat over the pond.

The department of agriculture recommends neighborly co-operation in ice harvesting. Two, three, or more families joining forces and using the same pond or stream, if convenient, can do the work much more easily and expeditiously than the working force of one farm alone ordinarily can do it. Also, when done by two or more families jointly, ice harvesting partakes of the nature of a picnic and the work is done without anybody thinking of it as a disagreeable task.

The cutting of ice is a very simple operation. The method recommended by the department of agriculture is to mark off the pond in rectangular figures of convenient size, then to saw out a strip from shore to shore and force it under the ice, leaving an open channel to the bank. Pieces as large as can be handled are then sawed out on either side, pulled ashore by men with ice hooks or by a horse on the bank, then loaded on the wagon or sled.

The method of storing varies. If the ice is to be stored in a properly constructed ice house with commercial insulation, little packing is needed. If a house not equipped with commercial insulation, or some other makeshift storage space is used, the ground should be covered with 12 inches of sawdust or planing-mill shavings before the ice is put in. A 12-inch space should be left between the ice and the walls and should be tightly filled in with sawdust or shavings, and a covering of 18 inches of sawdust or shavings should be placed over the ice.

Planing-mill shavings are preferable to sawdust, being more absorbent and not so much inclined to pack. Whether sawdust or shavings are used, care must be taken that the material is thoroughly dry.

ISN'T IT DISAGREEABLE TO HEAR—

Your best customer's patient complaint. "The milk was sour again yesterday."

The milk inspector's judicial declaration. "Your bacterial count is too high."

The factory manager's peremptory decision. "I can't make good butter out of this cream and I can't make good cheese out of this milk."

If they are disagreeable, don't listen to them. You don't have to.

The bacterial count is high, the milk is sour, the quality of butter and cheese is poor often because the milk or cream wasn't kept cool because there was no ice available, and there was no ice available because you let all of it melt where it froze instead of gathering it and putting it in your ice house.

Fill the ice house full of natural ice from the pond or stream. That will help to stop the disagreeable things that people say about your milk and cream.

Provide Farm Buildings.

It will be the part of good farming to provide the necessary buildings. As soon as labor can be had and building materials secured it will pay to shelter stock and save crops.

Children's Logic.

"Do you know," said a little fellow of four years of age, "what I thought dark was? A great, huge live thing, the color of black, with mouth and eyes." Another assured his teacher that the wind was alive, for he heard it whistling in the night.

"Bully."

The word "bully" as a familiar term of address was employed in the time of Shakespeare and no doubt was old even then. In the sense of praiseworthy, excellent as, "That was a bully dinner," it is used both by Americans and by British subjects.

Y. M. C. A. LEAGUE BASKET BALL

Saturday night in the Y. M. C. A. two fast league basketball games were staged. The first game was between the famous Triangles and Scholastics which was won by the former with a score of 59-17.

The game was a whirlwind from the start but the Scholastics were too slow for the victors.

Johnson, Dolson and Robins did exceptionally good playing for the Triangles. Johnson succeeded in making nearly every chance he had at the basket. At the close of the game he had a total of thirteen fields, Dolson had nine fields and Robins had five fields and three fouls to his credit. Palisi and Wheeler also did some extra god work.

Smith did the best playing and scoring for the losers.

Following is the score:

The second game was between the fast Central A. C. and the B. R. C. This game was also very fast and exciting but the Centrals proved to be the fastest, winning by a score of 30-13.

Hughes and Kiernan did the good work for the Centrals and caged most of the baskets.

Consider what you have in the smallest chosen library. A company of the wisest and wittiest men that could be picked out of all civilized countries, in 1,000 years, have set in best order the results of their learning and wisdom. The men themselves were hid and inaccessible, solitary, impatient of interruption, fenced by etiquette; but the thought which they did not uncover to their bosom friend is here written out in transparent words to us, the strangers of another age.—Emerson.

HIGH SCHOOL BASKET BALL

Thursday afternoon the varsity girls played the senior girls and defeated them quite badly. The game was fast and exciting from the start, but the varsity was too much for the Seniors. The score at half time was 16-2 in favor of the varsity.

D. Palen and A. Hurley, the varsity forwards, played exceptionally good and were as fast as usual.

M. Simpson, the varsity center, played better than ever, holding her opponent gamely, and she shot four clever field baskets besides.

P. Bruyn, M. Meeker and P. Van Wagonen, the varsity guards, played exceptionally close and guarded very well.

Elizabeth DuFlon and Elizabeth Kingman did the best work for the Seniors.

Following is the score:

Mr. Buley refereed the game. Time of quarters was 10 minutes.

Saturday afternoon in the local high school gymnasium the Liberty girls defeated the local girls at basketball. The game was fast from the start and even though the locals wer beaten they put up an exceptionally hard fight. The score looks as if the game was one-sided, but it was not in the least.

Anne Hurley and Dorothy Palen, the local forwards, played as good as ever, but did not score the points they usually do.

Minnie Simpson, the center, played very good, helping out everywhere.

Polly Bruyn, Pauline Van Wagonen and Margaret Meeker, the local guards, played close and well and did not lower their good reputation.

After the game the visitors were entertained by dancing and a good "feed" was given them before their homeward journey was started.

This is the last game of the girls for some time and possibly the last of the season.

Following is the score and summary:

K. H. S. Girls	F.B.	F.P.	T.P.

Alfred W. Buley, D. P. C., refereed the game. The time periods were ten minute quarters.

Friday afternoon in the gymnasium a fast game was scheduled between the lordly Juniors and their little brothers, the Freshmen. Of course the Juniors won out by a good score, but the Freshmen have a good, fast, clever team.

It may be remembered that the Seniors defeated them by a margin of one point, and the Sophomores were not much better. Winters, Adams and Schonfeld did the best work for the Juniors and Bishop did very good, too.

Dederic, Goetchus and Carson did the best work for the Freshmen.

The final score was 24-9. Following is the league standing:

Team	W.	L.	Ave.
Juniors	3	0	1.000
Seniors	2	1	.666
Sophomores	1	2	.333
Freshmen	0	3	.000

Next week, Friday afternoon, the Seniors and Juniors play their second game. This is the starting of the second round of the series.

WAS A NURSE IN FOUR WARS

English Woman, Veteran of Many Previous Campaigns, Served in World Struggle.

Mrs. Teresa Eden Richardson, who died recently at Bath, England, was a worker in the hospitals of four wars. She held the South African medal, the Order of the Crown of Japan, the Japanese Red Cross Order of Merit, two Greek medals and the 1914 Star.

During the South African war, says the London Times, Mrs. Richardson nursed at a hospital at Bloemfontein, when the epidemic of enteric fever tried to the utmost the resources of the medical staff. Afterward, through the Japanese minister, she was attached to the Red Cross society of Japan during the war with Russia.

Later she nursed at Athens during the war between Greece and Turkey, and when the present war broke out, being then sixty-eight years old, she went to Brierfort, near Brussels. After the German armies had occupied that place she nursed at one of the hospitals of Antwerp throughout the bombardment, she and her maid being the only persons who remained at her hotel. Mrs. Richardson was one of the last to leave the town, escaping down the Scheldt in a coal barge crowded with refugees. The privation endured at this period seriously affected her health and she was compelled to abandon further attempts to render help in Red Cross hospitals in London and Nice.

FIGHT BATTLES OVER AND OVER

Wounded Yanks in British Hospital Have to Be Amused.

ARE LIKE LITTLE CHILDREN

Now Their Job Is Done They Will Fight to a Finish With Best Friends Over Question of Who Won War.

London.—Three wounded boys who are left behind in the hospital, the ones whose names were crossed from the lists of those who sailed away in time to reach home for Christmas, are the especial charge of the women who volunteered to work on the care committee of the Red Cross way back yonder last summer when there was a war on.

We thought that with the signing of the armistice our work soon would be over and the Christmas plans we already had begun to make were abandoned under the impression that there wouldn't be any wounded to entertain in England. But that was all a mistake; it seems as if our work might go on for quite a bit yet. Anyhow, our hospital at Tottenham is one of those which is still full. Every afternoon trains of ambulances pour out their burdens in our receiving wards just as in war times, and boys who have been for months in French or British hospitals are for the first time among their own home folks.

Wounded Captives Received.

Then there are our wounded prisoners—now beginning to dribble back from Germany—to be looked after and made much of. To listen to their stories alone takes one person's entire time.

There was no bother about Christmas dinner at Tottenham. Uncle Sam saw to that ages ago. Every boy in the hospital here had such a Christmas dinner as he will remember for years. Sir Thomas Lipton gave a party, one of his many, and it had special Christmas frills. The boys who could be moved assert they had a bully time at Sir Thomas' house.

He understands American boys, and more, he gets people to help entertain who understand them, too, like them and don't contradict them when they declare that they won the war. It's all a matter of that little phrase with them. These children of a larger growth who have been masquerading in khaki these last few months have become children again; now their job is done and they will fight to the finish with their best friends over the question of who won the war. They just naturally can't keep off it. And some of the ones who arrived too late to fight at all declare that it's not won yet, and that wars and wars and wars are going to follow.

By night time they are all worn out with fighting it all over again and they sink back in their narrow little gray cots and the indulgent nurses—girls of our Denver unit in their quiet gray cotton dresses and their snowy caps—pass down the long wards tucking in this quivering battler, smoothing the forehead of that boy of nineteen who has lost all his faith in any government whatsoever because he lost his hospital allowance to a guy from Cincinnati before he had had time to even pack it in the cherished money belt the Red Cross gave him.

But most of the boys who are being left over here are seriously wounded and it is thought best for them not to take a sea voyage for a while longer; so we try to plan little surprises for them week by week to pass the time until their joyful summons comes.

It isn't so easy, either, to think of something that will amuse a lad who must always lie on his chest to keep a piece of shrapnel lodged somewhere in his interior from floating into a locality where it may cause a great deal of damage.

Bracelets Are Praised.

Little silver bracelets with tags bearing the boy's full name and his military number are perhaps the most coveted trinkets, but as these cost $1.50 apiece, they cannot be got by the dozen by a single person. And then by the time they were all engraved and the numbers verified in all probability the boys would be transferred and far away. I asked one boy how it was that Yanks were crazy to wear bracelets, and he said it was a little queer how the idea had taken, and then he added:

"What can you expect? We took to wrist watches because they told us fighting men wore them; we found they wouldn't go, but we got the habit of having something on our arms, and it all came down to this: if you've got your stuff chained to you it's yours; just once pry it off and you pass on and leave it, just like we have left so many things we thought sure we couldn't get along without."

100,000 Smiths in Army.

London.—An American soldier is authority for the statement that there are 100,000 Smiths in the American army.

The Williams win, scoring 1,300 against 7,000 for the Johns.

Furthermore, he says, there are 262 John O'Briens and 50 of these have wives named Mary.

Animal's Strong Instinct.

Some animals are remarkable, indeed, for the wonderful development of love and devotion they possess and show toward men. They are so acute in the sense of their affections that they seem to perceive the feelings of their master in advance of his expressions. Masters of dumb animals have often been heard to declare that their animals were quicker to detect in them a spirit of anger than were their fellow men.

Unreasonable.

"You are two-faced. You let another fellow kiss you." "Well, if I have two faces, what's your kick?"

Words Most in Use.

It is declared by a philologist that nine words do one-fourth of the verbal work, and 34 words one-half. The nine most useful words are: And, be, have, it, of, the, to, will, you. The 34 more that, with these nine, do half our literary work are: About, all, as, at, but, can, come, day, dear, for, get, go, hear, her, if, in, me, much, not, no, on, one, say, she, so, that, there, they, this, though, time, we, with, write, your.

Daily Thought.

Hast thou attempted greatness? Then go on; back-turning slackens resolution.—Herrick.

Pretty Thought.

The conception of the past and the future is well illustrated in the case of a little boy who said to his mother one day: "Mother, I know why it is that babies cannot speak until they are twelve months old or more. It is because they come straight from heaven, and if they were able to talk as soon as they were born they would tell the secrets, and so God doesn't let them speak until they have almost forgotten them."

Neighbor Women [illegible]
